WHAT WELL DRESSED WOMEN WILL WEAR

Lack of New Fabrics Felt in Fashion World, Wonderful Weave Like Beaver Fur Being Only Attractive Material Offered; Attempt Being Made to Introduce Cotton Velvets

OSTRICH TRIMMING ON BLOUSE LATEST STYLE NOTE

SMART VERSION OF NEW FASHION

the more cotton fabrics she buys, that much sooner will the present supply be exhausted and the new cotton in the bale be demanded to go into the mills, giving work, where work and money are frantically needed; for, mind you, not all the suffering in this war will be in Europe. This is the second time in the half century that the south will be hit hard by battle.

The campaign for cotton gowns is a good one and if successful will serve the country in several ways. There is little need to tell any woman of the loveliness of a cotton frock, or how she shall make it, especially if that woman has spent any time below the imaginary boundary line, in a land where the trick is turned in a graceful manner.

Orange and cotton chiffon and batiste, point d'esprit, and "footing" have been the staples of the Southern wardrobe for more than a century, and any woman, especially a debutante, looks well in them. If they will not serve for the formal occasions among women who are turned out smartly in society, they will serve for the informal life of the house during the winter.

A debutante who wished to do something individual should take orange and colored muslin for her social uniform, make each gown according to the latest style, vary them as much as her imagination suggests, proclaim her program, and the result would be that she would be written down as one of intelligence and originality, and she would have all the followers that every debutante craves. Added to this, she would be increasingly dressed, which is an item of more importance this winter than it has been in ten years.

Are broadcloths to be reckoned among the new silks? If so, they would make a chapter to describe and criticize under the name of broadcloths. Surely the weavers and dyers went back far in the world's output of man-made fabrics to learn the secret of the broadcloth, the suppression, the addition, the use of bullion that the present broadcloths show. They are a credit to the workers of the epoch.

There are others on surging foundation with a fully pressed thread of silver or gold forming a vague design like a flocking. There are to be seen that might serve for a museum chair of Louis XIV's time and which are sparingly used to bring out the richness of a thin gown; and there are heavy, bold broadcloths that might have been used by King David and which a modern woman may wear as a dress. The garment is made with deep horizontal fur and lined with decorative crystals. One naturally associates the idea of brocade with a flowered design on a satin surface, but this season we have the broadcloth velvet, the kind that costs, and of which the human frame can stand only a moderate amount. These, as well as some of the satin ones, are made in two yard lengths showing a single pattern; but lovely as they are, they are a snare and a delusion in the hands of the amateur or one who has not a proper valuation of their worth and the way to use them.

As for taffeta, one still sees it, even though the cold weather is advancing when the fast and the unfast flee from this stuffy old silk. A few of the important gowns have a comingling of gabardine and taffeta, such as a long tunic of one over a skirt of the other, and sleeves of one in a blouse or jacket of the other.

But such fashions smack of the early autumn and hold good only in the moderate climates for the winter months. The style may be a good one for women who cannot wear woven fabrics through the winter that stretches from October to April, because the climate does not offer enough cold days to warrant it.

CROSS-BARRED SILKS.

But what is much smarter than taffeta is the silk of our grandmothers. It has not only been revived, but has been accepted without a demur. It serves for all kinds of occasions except those in which it is worn under a long top coat. It comes in black and black, and makes durable and attractive evening frocks. Time was when the silk of the day did not feel and properly fitted out unless she had a new dress or pink for the evening frock trimmed with expensive lace in a weave that cost more than the dress.

One of the dressmakers started a fashion for making blocks on the black fabric, stripes of black velvet and many dressmakers are now doing this. These stripes also sell the fabric already arranged in square. It is not attractive as an entire gown; it must be part of a frock.

For instance, there is a model with a gathered skirt of the blackened silk and velvet that first wraps the floor and above it is a short chemise of black velvet, the skirt being made of the millinery use. There are long sleeves fitting the arms like gloves, and a medallion decollete that shows more of the shoulders than the chest. Truly, but ultra fashion.

Among the other old-fashioned silks, which are revived this season are those striped ones in contrasting colors, such as pale yellow and bright blue, crimson and buff, black and white, which we jumble together in our minds with the fashions of the Directory and the Revolution. Debutantes are wearing these to afternoon teas as well as to dances.

They are often made in a pictorial style, and if a young girl lends herself well to this style of dress, there is a novelty at her hand. The original frock of this kind made this season had a gathered short skirt of buff and blue—Continental coloring—caught up at one side, and above it a half-fitting bodice of bright blue velvet with a wide decollete that stretched across the shoulders and ended in a peplum below the waist with a flaring tail at the back.

At the left of the waist there was a bouquet of yellow of the valley and pink roses with a small white bird holding in its beak a shower of colored ribbons. There are widely striped silks in black and white that are made into full skirts with bodices, fitted, or loose like a chemise of black velvet that reach up to the neck and end in a boned white lace collar, or are cut away to show a slice of the shoulders in imitation of the gowns worn by the ladies when the "Dogs were the Kings." It is permissible to quote the august Mr. Browning in anything so frivolous as evening gowns, although, if I am not mistaken, he indulged "in a bit of a description of a coiffure himself in the same poem."

FASHIONS FROM THE TOP DOWN.

"Did you ever notice that fashions always start at the top?" This question was asked a few days ago by one of the prominent New York importers who studies the question of fashions in women's dress in this country and abroad with the cold, calculating eye of an expert business man.

"I have often noticed the fact that any new and daring color scheme starts in favor at the tip of the hat. Take, for instance, the combination of purple and cerise so much used by the successful dressmaker this season. It began a few seasons ago with a sparing use on the hat. Then it was seen on the coat collar, a little here and a little there. Then we saw it used in the girdle. Corsets and purple combinations in ribbon were extensively used for girdles last summer. And now it is here in full force. Brocade showing that combination with the addition of metallic thread are among the most highly favored of the season."

Then, for so to substantiate this theory, this importer recalled that the velvet for light gowns a few seasons ago began with a sparing use in hair ornaments and on hats, and that fact, which is the most acceptable ornament of this season and is seen from the crown of the head to the slender ankle, was first introduced a few months ago in the guise of hair ornaments.

This same theory has been expressed before by those who follow the trend of fashions. A prominent dressmaker a few years ago came to the conclusion that the tendency of fashion was determined more than anything else by the tendency of headpiece.

This blouse of sheer batiste, made more substantial with stitching and tucks, is made stiff daintily ostrich fringe effectively put on. With it is worn a huge purple velvet hat, trimmed with a pink rose and bunch of grapes at the side.

THINGS THAT WOMEN THINK ABOUT

A pink chiffon blouse has a high lace collar for all the world like the old-fashioned lace collars that used to be wired up under our ears and fastened with hooks in the back—two decided differences. Instead it is fastened in the front and it is loose enough to stand up without wires. It is edged with fur and so are the fronts of the pink chiffon blouse, and the fur is put on with a band of narrow black silk braid. It is decidedly smart, this use of fur and braid together.

The skirt scalloped about the edge is an accepted thing now, and it is as attractive as it is usual. It breaks the full line about the ankles and makes the shorter skirt less abrupt in its ending.

Short skirt effects of lace on chiffon blouses are decidedly becoming. The little jackets usually fall over a girdle of some decided shade—orange, green or bright blue velvet.

Wide silk braid is noticeable on many of the new French importations. Sometimes it is used for belts, drawn through straps of the fabric of the frock, sometimes it is used for patch pockets. It is formed into upstanding collars and deep cuffs, and it even forms the edge of tunics and of the foundation skirts beneath them.

Black velvet ribbon is one of the minor features of the autumn fashions. Sometimes it is worn about the throat, tied in a bow, with a long end or loop reaching to be caught in another bow on the front of the bodice.

For a child there are real muffs and hat sets, trimmed with red or pink roses—one on the hat, one on the muff, both bright and cheerful.

There are many sleeves of white net, rather full, gathered into a narrow cuff, and in dark serge and satin bodices. These also a touch of daintiness that is essential in woman's dress.

Trimmings are trimmed, one stem about another, around the crown of a black velvet Spanish sailor hat.

A child's hat of black velvet has six or eight strands of white and red beads about the crown, finished on one side with a red tulle tassel.

Black velvet hat has about the crown a band of beaver fur, with three tailored bands of brown-wide silver ribbon tied in a bow at the edge of the brim.

Spanish is used as a trimming on many of the new blouses. Short faces are used as a fringe to edge flaring collars and cuffs, for ornamental or satin or silk. It is a goodly soft and effective means of trimming.

Use of fur and tulle are among the new fashions offered for the contemplation of the smart womanhood. There is a little one of black lace, trimmed with a standing tulle ruche flaring up ward from a rather narrow, of fur that clasps snugly throat.

THINGS FOR FIVE CENTS

Lingerie Clasps. Five cents each is the price of the dainty lingerie clasp. They are to be the straps of the chemise and combination over the shoulder. They are made of short lengths of narrow ribbon, shirred through the center and fastened in little ring under a narrow lace rose. The little band of ribbon is clasped about the shoulder bands to hold the together.

Button Hooks. For five cents button hooks with white bone handles can be bought. A supply of these might be laid in by many housewife to advantage, for every room ought to be furnished with at least a shoe buttoner. When they can be bought for five cents each, several might be indulged in without extravagance.

Wash Cloths. Very good wash cloths of very fine Turkish toweling, whipped about the edge with pale pink or blue, can be bought for five cents. They are of good quality. Of course, repeated tugging takes out the color at the edges, but that is a minor matter.

Black Silver and Pink

A bonnet so light and small that it is almost negligible, but so charming that it is decidedly noticeable, is the little one of black lace, trimmed with a standing tulle ruche flaring up

This coat suit of green broadcloth, trimmed with braid and gray fur, carries all the salient points of the present fashions—the short, full, the long, flaring coat, the absence of waistline, the closing at the left, the long, full skirt, the long, full sleeves.

JOURNEY TO CAMPUS.
About twenty students from the People's Republic of China, who are studying in the University of California field last Saturday to see the expedition game between the Muscovy and the Claremonts. A great deal of excitement was caused by the fact that the team was led by a Chinese, who enjoyed every event from a musical game to the team's performance. After the games were over, the Chinese expedition around the campus and the Claremonts. They saw some of the things of California's old school.

SOCIETY

CHARITY affairs attract the attention of the smart sets the world over, and in charity as well as in other phases of life, it is originality that counts. So groups of women everywhere are planning unique affairs, turning this originality into concrete results for charities at home and for the great relief work now so sadly needed abroad. Women of the smart sets around the bay are watching eagerly the experiments tried in the East. The cotton show there planned by Miss Genevieve Clark and the "ladies of the cabinet" was a great success and there will be "a cotton show" across the bay and probably one in our city. The latest development is the "fashion show," which opens at the Hotel Ritz, in New York, next Thursday, and among the judges are to be Mrs. Hermann Oelrichs and Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt Jr., both formerly of California. One hears that the fate of fashion depends upon its verdict. One purpose of the fete, aside from its charitable intent, is to promote American fashions.

To the jury on the morning of November 4 will be presented gowns, hats and furs originated by American designers and silks, wools and velvets manufactured here. The judges are considered to be among the best dressed women in New York. They say that although the New York dressmakers may not produce gowns of marked originality at their first effort, there is no reason why in time they should not create interesting new silhouettes and artistic designs. The exhibition is entirely non-competitive and the jury is one of admission only. There is no thought among either patronesses or dressmakers of permanently giving up allegiance to Paris. The situation now is in a measure no fashions at all or New York fashions. The proceeds of the fete are, as has been announced, to go to the committee of mercy, and in order to make the funds as large as possible the various exhibitions are to have the added interest of special features of entertainment.

Dinners are to precede the opening and dancing is to follow it in the ballroom. Debutantes are to act as ushers and the flower decorations are to be most elaborate. The gowns will be displayed by the most beautiful manikins of New York, posed in tableaux on the stage, and a number of well-known actresses are to assist in the disposal of those gowns which the exhibitors have contributed to be sold for the benefit of the charity fund. If this is a great success in New York City prominent women here will plan for a similar exhibition. It would no doubt be a great success if such people as Mrs. Requa, Mrs. Havens, Mrs. William Taylor, Mrs. Hearst, Mrs. William H. Crocker, Mrs. Frederick Kohl and Mrs. Tyler Henshaw would give it their personal attention.

The bazaar just concluded for the Baby Hospital had much to offer that was both unique and original. Bazaars are always very much on the same lines, so when originality can be displayed it is always specially commendable. The bazaar was a great financial success and it is announced also that the $500 subscriptions have all been paid in. They were given by W. F. Boardman, Geo. W. Collins, L. W. Hellman Jr., the Howard Company, Joseph R. Knowland, Duncan McDuffie, C. W. Merrill.

SOCIETY GATHERING FOR RELIEF WORK.

One of the largest social gatherings of the season is scheduled for Wednesday, November 18, and the hostess of the day will be Mrs. Granville Abbott, who has kindly loaned her home to the Ladies' Relief Society for a benefit card party. The card game will begin at 2 o'clock and there will be a tea at 4 o'clock, and over two hundred guests are expected to be present. This is a delightful way of entertaining because many people who do not play cards greatly enjoy coming in after the game and meeting their friends informally at tea.

The hour over the tea tables rounds out delightfully an afternoon of enjoyment at cards. A large receiving party will assist Mrs. Abbott and the card afternoon will mark one of the most important dates of the season.

Mrs. and Mrs. Tyler Henshaw recently returned from their northern trip, having passed delightful vacation days in Oregon and Washington. Mrs. Henshaw will be the hostess tomorrow, entertaining in her home on Vernon Heights one of the clubs, the members of which play auction exceedingly well. Among the members is Mrs. Wilder Churchill of Napa.

Mrs. Murray Orick was also a bridge hostess of the week, entertaining forty guests at the Claremont.

FAIR STUDY Highbrows CAUSE RENT IN CLUBDOM

San Francisco Organizations Sadly Split When Mental Capacity Is Issue

The San Francisco clubwomen are sadly divided at heart. They took to assembling each other's mental capacity at Pacific Grove the other day, and the attack on a famous bridge, known as the supreme insult in these days.

Thus they say it was the most high representative of study interests, Mrs. E. H. Colburn, who bitterly condemned the habit of extracting great conversation from water district reports to the good taste of club organizations. By the way, the nature of club sections such as reports belonged to the careful and conscientious study clubs.

Unfortunately for the argument of the reform movement, the club representative produced the goods. With every club she had in mind, she said, they had advanced of stuporously accurate facts that showed all criticism and saved the honor of club sections.

It might be thought by the prejudiced enemies of federations in general that such a study club would be a thing of the future. But the club lady who caused the rift in the club lady? It is not done in the gentle confines of Alameda county? Is it?

TWENTIETH CENTURY CLUB.

Received from its officers during the election meeting, the club lady, Mrs. E. H. Colburn, is to be observed at the Twentieth Century Club on November 3. The art section, under the chairmanship of Mrs. E. H. Colburn, is responsible for the timely reorganization.

Representative canvasses issued by Mrs. William Keith, supplemented by the striking portrait bust of the late painter of dark forests and glimpses of sky, by Gertrude Boyle Kane, will be on exhibition. The address of the day will be an appreciation of "William Keith, the Dean of California Painters." Both Mrs. Keith and the sculptress will be guests of honor, and a great many Parkley non-members of the club will be present.

Under Mrs. Holway the interest of Twentieth Century club members in the art section has been so great that more than fifty are investigating the development of national painting. When the exhibition with its fine collection of works by the Americans from the colonial days to the skyscraper present opens, these fifty will take excursions to examine the original inspirations of their study.

Further plans of the Twentieth Century Club for November include a luncheon on the 17th and a benefit entertainment on the 21st. Following the luncheon, impersonations of plantation people in their quaint songs will be given by Miss Clara Alexander, Mrs. Arthur Cole and Mrs. Walter G. Glenn will preside as club hostesses. Mrs. E. B. Gimbal and Mrs. T. S. McCullough, too, hostesses. Decorations for the month are in charge of Mrs. Paul O. Tietzen and Mrs. Lester W. Hink.

The Mendelssohn Trio will give the program at the entertainment, which is planned to raise funds for the purchase of club stock. The three artists of the group are Clara Freuler, soprano; Martin D. Dukes-Parker, pianist; Ruth Griffith, danseuse. In direction of this affair is a committee composed of Mrs. Theo. Mendelssohn, Mrs. E. H. Colburn, Mrs. E. H. Wood, Mrs. T. S. McCullough, Mrs. J. E. McCreary, Mrs. E. B. Gimbal, Mrs. A. E. Wickersham, Mrs. A. C. Sanderson.

Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock the dramatic section will meet for interpretative study, with Mrs. Oscar Maillard, leader.

CASA GUIDI CIRCLE.

The Casa Guidi Circle, the Berkeley literary club headed by Mrs. Ora Whitely Perkins, heard a program of especial interest at the last meeting of October, held Friday. With the theme of the day, "Taciturn, Poet and Philosopher of Lytle," Mrs. Oscar Maillard Bennett presented the poetic and philosophic subject from the standpoint of practical idealism.

Mrs. Bennett has been giving lectures recently on modern dramatists before both the Ebell Club of Oakland and the California Club of San Francisco as well. Her interpretations have met with an appreciative reception from all these organizations.

At the preceding meeting of the Casa Guidi Circle the Rev. J. A. E. Fry gave a talk on the ancient prophet, Amos. Comparing him with present-day prophets, he proved certain differences and striking similarities.

LAKEVIEW WOMAN'S CLUB.

Tomorrow afternoon, November 2, the Lakeview Women's Club will listen to a program more representative of their interests than any yet presented before the members.

The Art of the Short Story—What It Demands of the Author—will be the subject of a talk by Dr. George A. Smithson of the English department of the University of California. Principal Alfred Colton of Lakeview school will explain the character and scope of the interesting departmental work now carried on in some of the Oakland schools. In addition a reading will be given by Mrs. Alfred Read.

Mrs. J. P. McManis, chairman of the program, will be assisted in receiving by the following: Mrs. George A. Dow, Mrs. M. K. Hughes, Mrs. Lucy C. Hatch, Mrs. J. W. Hamilton, Mrs. J. A. Hayes, Mrs. R. M. Higgins. Guests will be present at the meeting, which will be held in the assembly hall of the Lakeview school, with Mrs. Frank J. Ball, president of the club, presiding.

CHILD'S WELFARE LEAGUE.

With the schedule of meeting dates upset by the special meeting of last week, the Child's Welfare League will not hold its regular session this Monday. The next conference of the league has been set instead for November 9.

EBELL SOCIETY.

"Personal Observations of the War Zone," by Dr. Edward von Adelung, supplemented by Rev. William Day Simpson's ideas on the inconsistency of "Praying for Peace While Planning for War," promises a dramatically intense program for the Ebell guest afternoon, Tuesday. Mrs. Cora E. Jones, leader of the civic section, will preside as chairman of the day.

Dr. von Adelung was one of the few Californians caught in Europe when the war cloud burst who returned with enough eloquence to tell the tale. As an eyewitness of chaotic scenes, his recital of impressions is expected to vitalize the conflict for club members who realize it vaguely only as a cause of the high cost of living.

Concluding war, there will be an hour of reception and tea. Mrs. Cora Jones as hostess will be assisted by Mrs. S. C. Borland, Mrs. C. H. King, Mrs. E. A. Kleuril, Mrs. John A. Beckwith, Mrs. Edwin W. Owen, Mrs. J. C. Lynch, Mrs. R. H. Kessler, Mrs. Harry J. Benson, Mrs. Charles A. Dukes, Mrs. W. E. Montgomery, Mrs. M. A. Anderson, Mrs. J. L. Fuller, Mrs. S. F. Mikel, Mrs. T. C. Stoddard, Mrs. W. D. Huntington, Mrs. F. W. Lake.

Mrs. Theresa H. Gately will be presiding hostess at the November luncheon.

Saturday, November 14, the choral section will give a concert for the benefit of the piano fund.

Before the general meeting, however, there will be sessions of the laboratory section under Mrs. J. L. Egus, and the current events section guided by Mrs. L. C. Walrath tomorrow afternoon.

The committee for the month is composed of Mrs. F. C. Stokes, chairman, Mrs. J. L. Egus, Mrs. W. S. Peters, Mrs. H. Z. Jones, Mrs. R. P. King, Mrs. George Mead, Mrs. Guy Smith, Mrs. L. H. Marshall, Mrs. J. C. Elliot, Mrs. B. F. Mason, Mrs. E. L. Harbert, Mrs. A. A. Luning, Mrs. L. B. Smith, Mrs. E. L. Winchester, Mrs. H. E. Hawes, Mrs. M. E. Smythe, Mrs. H. Kinsell, Mrs. C. Anderson, Mrs. H. Schuster, Mrs. J. C. Putnam, Mrs. J. E. Miller, Mrs. H. J. Broadway, Mrs. L. M. Lathrop, Mrs. Jane Kinsell.

The vesper service today at the Y. W. C. A. at 5:30 o'clock will take the form of a recital in charge of Harold Kling, soprano, Miss Alice Peterson, mezzo-soprano, Miss Florence Morrison, alto; Harold Kling, tenor and Jas. Sullivan, will be heard in the following program:

"Hark! You Mind the Storms"....Cowles.
"The Quiret".....Rogers.
"Harden Not Your Heart".....Rogers.
"Watchman, Tell Us of the Night".....Sullivan.
"The Day is Over".....Broom.
"The Quiret".....Rogers.

Quartet number.

On Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock the members of the new Y. W. C. A. rowing club will meet at the municipal boat house. There are two crews with fifteen girls in each, and either can add a few more rowers. But the real Y. W. C. A. event of the week will be the club entertainment to be given the evening of November 3 in Wigwam hall, Sixteenth and Jefferson streets, when the program will be contributed by the various organizations.

CALIFORNIA WRITERS' CLUB.

Two events will call together the members of the California Writers' Club during November. On Tuesday, November 3, will be given a lecture on "Poetry" by Rev. C. S. S. Dutton, pastor of the First Unitarian Church of San Francisco, who has given under their auspices. On the evening of the 17th a program and reception will be given by the "writers" organization in the Paul Kelly studio in San Francisco.

The entertainment at the San Francisco affair will be comprised of novel numbers contributed by Herman Whitaker, Dr. William S. Morgan, Mrs. Annie Holman, Miss Edna Caldwell, Mrs. Ernest Raymond Farley, Miss Alice Lomard Davis, Mrs. Louise Anderson Patten, Mrs. Alice Louise Chase, and some of the authors of stories in "West Winds." "West Winds" is the volume representing the California Writers' Club published recently.

OAKLAND CENTER.

With election so imminent that amendment discussions are passe, and soon to sink into a blessed oblivion, programs of the civic centers sound a different note for November. On November 13 the Oakland Center will observe an Oakland Day, with Mrs. Agnes Ray, member of the California State Board of Education, as a guest of honor.

Following a business meeting conducted by Mrs. E. H. Colburn, president, Miss Cynthia Lett will preside as chairman. The subject considered will be "The Convention of California Municipalities Recently Held in Monterey." J. H. Quire, the speaker, is secretary of the bureau of municipal reference at the University of California.

In illustration of the address, the fine collection of photographs contributed by the city of Oakland for the municipal improvement reference of the University of California, and gathered by the bureau of municipal reference of the University, will be on exhibition.

On Friday, November 27, Miss Ethel Moore will describe the Pageant and Masque of St. Louis for the benefit of the center. This lecture will be illustrated by stereoscopic pictures. On the same afternoon E. Morris Cox, assistant superintendent of Oakland schools, will speak on the "Size of Classes in Oakland Schools." The public is invited to both meetings.

Not content with the part it has played in educating Oakland women politically this season, the Oakland Center urges: "The day of election is at hand—November 3—and the women voters of Alameda county are urged to make use of their franchise and go to the polls and vote." The center chairman of membership, Mrs. E. W. Bartlett, reports a large access of new members.

FRUITVALE WOMAN'S CLUB.

The Fruitvale Woman's Club, of which Mrs. A. E. Sorrells is president, will meet Wednesday afternoon, November 4, at the residence of Miss Ida Diethens, chairman of the musical and dramatic section. The program for the day will be composed of musical numbers.

MILLS ASSOCIATION.

Miss Mabel Thayer Gray will entertain the Mills Association of Alameda County at her home on Tenth street, Oakland, next Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. There will be a program composed of piano selections by Miss Roxana Wiehe, violin numbers by Miss Miriam Wiehe, and a talk given by Miss Elizabeth Hermann of Mills College on "Munich and Berlin."

PIEDMONT CIVIC CLUB.

Sacrificing its regular meeting day, the first Friday of the month, the Piedmont Civic club held a brief business session last Friday that grew into a Panama-Pacific rally conducted by Mrs. A. C. Posey, chairman of the Alameda County Woman's auxiliary. Exposition and the prospect facing California next year were the sole topics considered.

Following the educational lecture illustrated by moving and stereoscopic views of the canal and exposition grounds, which Louis Levy, chief of the P. P. I. E. department of publicity presented, Miss Mollie Conners spoke of the part California women are to take in 1915.

Other remarks were made by Mrs. Sarah Burdick, favoring the passage of Amendment 17, and by Mrs. A. C. Posey. Miss Conners, who is vice-chairman of the Alameda County Woman's auxiliary, and Mrs. Posey have carried on a vigorous and efficacious campaign in interesting the people of the county in the exposition. They have organized rallies, made speeches, appointed committee heads, traveled over many miles and spared no effort in the work of solidifying the woman's organization which will have charge of the California host building at the fair. As a result our county auxiliary is quite equal to any, not extending the San Francisco branch, in the State, and fired with enthusiasm.

At the conclusion of the Piedmont rally, Mrs. Dudley Kinsell, chairman of the North Oakland district, issued memberships in the auxiliary to many of those present.

OAKLAND CLUB.

The first Wednesday of the month will be devoted as usual to a discussion of business by members of the Oakland club. The session, opening at 2:30 o'clock, will be conducted by the president, Mrs. George Adelson.

ADELPHIAN CLUB.

Panama-Pacific exposition day at the Adelphean club will be observed tomorrow afternoon by many members and friends at 2:30 o'clock when Louis Levy, of the P. P. I. E. publicity committee, will show the official series of moving and stereoscopic views of the canal and exposition buildings. In addition, Mrs. Ernest Simpson of San Francisco will tell of the work in charge of the woman's board of which she is a member. Mrs. Philip Teller will preside as hostess.

The third special concert of the series given at the Adelphean club will be an event of Tuesday evening, when the program will be furnished by Warren D. Allen, pianist; Victor de Gomez, cellist, and Miss Fernanda Pratt, contralto. On Tuesday, November 19, the 24 new members of the Adelphean club will be extended a reception at a "Thanksgiving dinner, followed by a program and dance."

The second of the series of three subscription dances held on November 19, will conclude important Adelphean affairs for the month.

ALTA MIRA CLUB.

No meeting will be held by Alta Mira club members until November 9, when Mrs. Leonard Smith will preside as chairman of a guest afternoon. On this special occasion a play in two acts "The Little Girl in the Window" will be given, and will be rendered by Mrs. William Simpson, Mrs. J. C. Elliot, hostess, will be assisted by Mrs. H. Z. Jones, chairman of the refreshment committee. On

The Bohemian Club formed recently by Mrs. Lillian Stearns to promote good fellowship among music lovers around the city meets the first Saturday afternoon of each month. An interesting program was rendered at the October meeting after which tea was served. Piano solos were given by Miss Mabel Burton, Miss Helen Murray, Miss Hazel Lark, Miss Beatrice Sherwood, Miss Grace Jorgens, Miss Olive Peters, and Mr. Carl Gunderson. Vocal solos by Miss Adelle Gilbert and Mrs. Steiner. Viola solos by Miss Margaret Bowman, accompanied by Miss Brownlee. Readings by Mrs. P. Browning and Mrs. Stearns.

CONCERT IN EUREKA.

A number of well known Oakland musicians gave a concert in Eureka last week and their efforts resulted in a "musical triumph" according to the Eureka press. Mrs. Irene L. Note, a soloist of Oakland, who is a soloist of St. Mary's church of San Francisco was one of the soloists of the concert, which the Eureka press wrote of as follows: "The talented soloists in the program were Mrs. Irene L. Note, contralto; Mr. James Gallet, harpist; and Mr. Cedric Wright, violinist. Each artist and each number was applauded to the echo and in each case a concert were accorded. The accompaniment on the piano were played by Mr. Walter Gounod Ave Maria sung by Mrs. Schütz, accompanied on the harp and violin was probably the finest number ever given before the members of the club."

The Wednesday Morning Choral Club met at Ebell last Wednesday morning when Mrs. Tyler Henshaw Jr. gave a "Cycle of Wind Songs," by Harry Turner Salter. Numbers were also rendered

LOS ANGELES ELOPER BRIDE IN BAY CITY

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 31. — Following the mysterious disappearance a week ago of Margaret Carrier, Pasadena high school girl, and the frantic search for her by her parents and friends, word of her whereabouts with Charles Ketterly, a San Antonio sweetheart, has been received from her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Carrier, 141 South Pasadena avenue.

The girl telegraphed her parents that she had become the bride of Ketterly last week in San Francisco and that with her husband she will remain in the northern city.

It is a marriage is the climax of a romance which began in the high school days when she was in the fifteenth grade and when Ketterly was but a sophomore. No doubt it had ever been made to Ketterly by the girl's parents. Today they stated that they might not have been a father to the bride, but they gave their blessing to the young couple.

BRIDEGROOM FLATTENS AUTO TIRES TO ESCAPE

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 31. — "Carroll C. Gault," who flatted the tires of a touring car which he was driving, as a result of the marriage here of Stephen Dussell Lovelady, son of an aristocratic Boston family, to Miss Florence E. Child of St. Paul, Lovelady let the air out of tires of the half dozen or more autos in which the wedding guests had arrived, and before the owners of the cars could reach the tires the bride, bridegroom and best man had vanished.

The wedding was celebrated at the Hotel St. Paul, last Wednesday morning by a trio composed of Mrs. G. A. Dreyfus, Mrs. Thomas Addison, and Mrs. George Jensen.

REALTY MEN PLAN FOR FUTURE

Many Important Problems to Be Presented at the Convention.

The Oakland Real Estate Association is busy this week in preparing for the annual convention of the California Real Estate Federation, to be held in Oakland following the change in the official plans of the association. The convention is being held in the city of Oakland, and the local association has received many contributions to the entertainment fund, which is being raised by members of the organization.

The session will feature a banquet, in which the local organization will introduce novel features and several other entertainments are planned for the guests from all parts of the state. The Commercial Club will aid in the entertainment, tentative plans for a luncheon and an automobile drive about the city being in the hands of committees and other affairs are also being planned by other organizations. The convention will, it is expected, be one of the most important held in the history of the federation.

Several important conferences on real estate laws and other matters of general interest to the realty business are among the events slated for the business session. The guests will be received by President Kaiser of the local association and Secretary C. Fred Burke. Details of the banquet and other entertainments will be announced in a short time.

The local association has also planned several new plans for business administration, such as issuing reports on the realty market, making public important deals and other means of systematizing the general market. These plans will be announced by committees in charge from time to time in the near future.

BUILDING ACTIVE IN COLLEGE CITY

Contractors Prepare to Rush Work Before Rainy Season Starts.

BERKELEY, Oct. 29.—In a rush the building permit seekers have invaded the city hall this week in preparation for an unusually large amount of work before the rainy season sets in earnest. The permits secured are especially for homes of medium price, for the purchase of rental of which type there has been a noticeably brisk recent demand.

Out of sixteen permits secured during the week, there were seven for new residences in the tract properties north of the city. The other permits were for the purchase of rental of which type there has been a noticeably brisk recent demand.

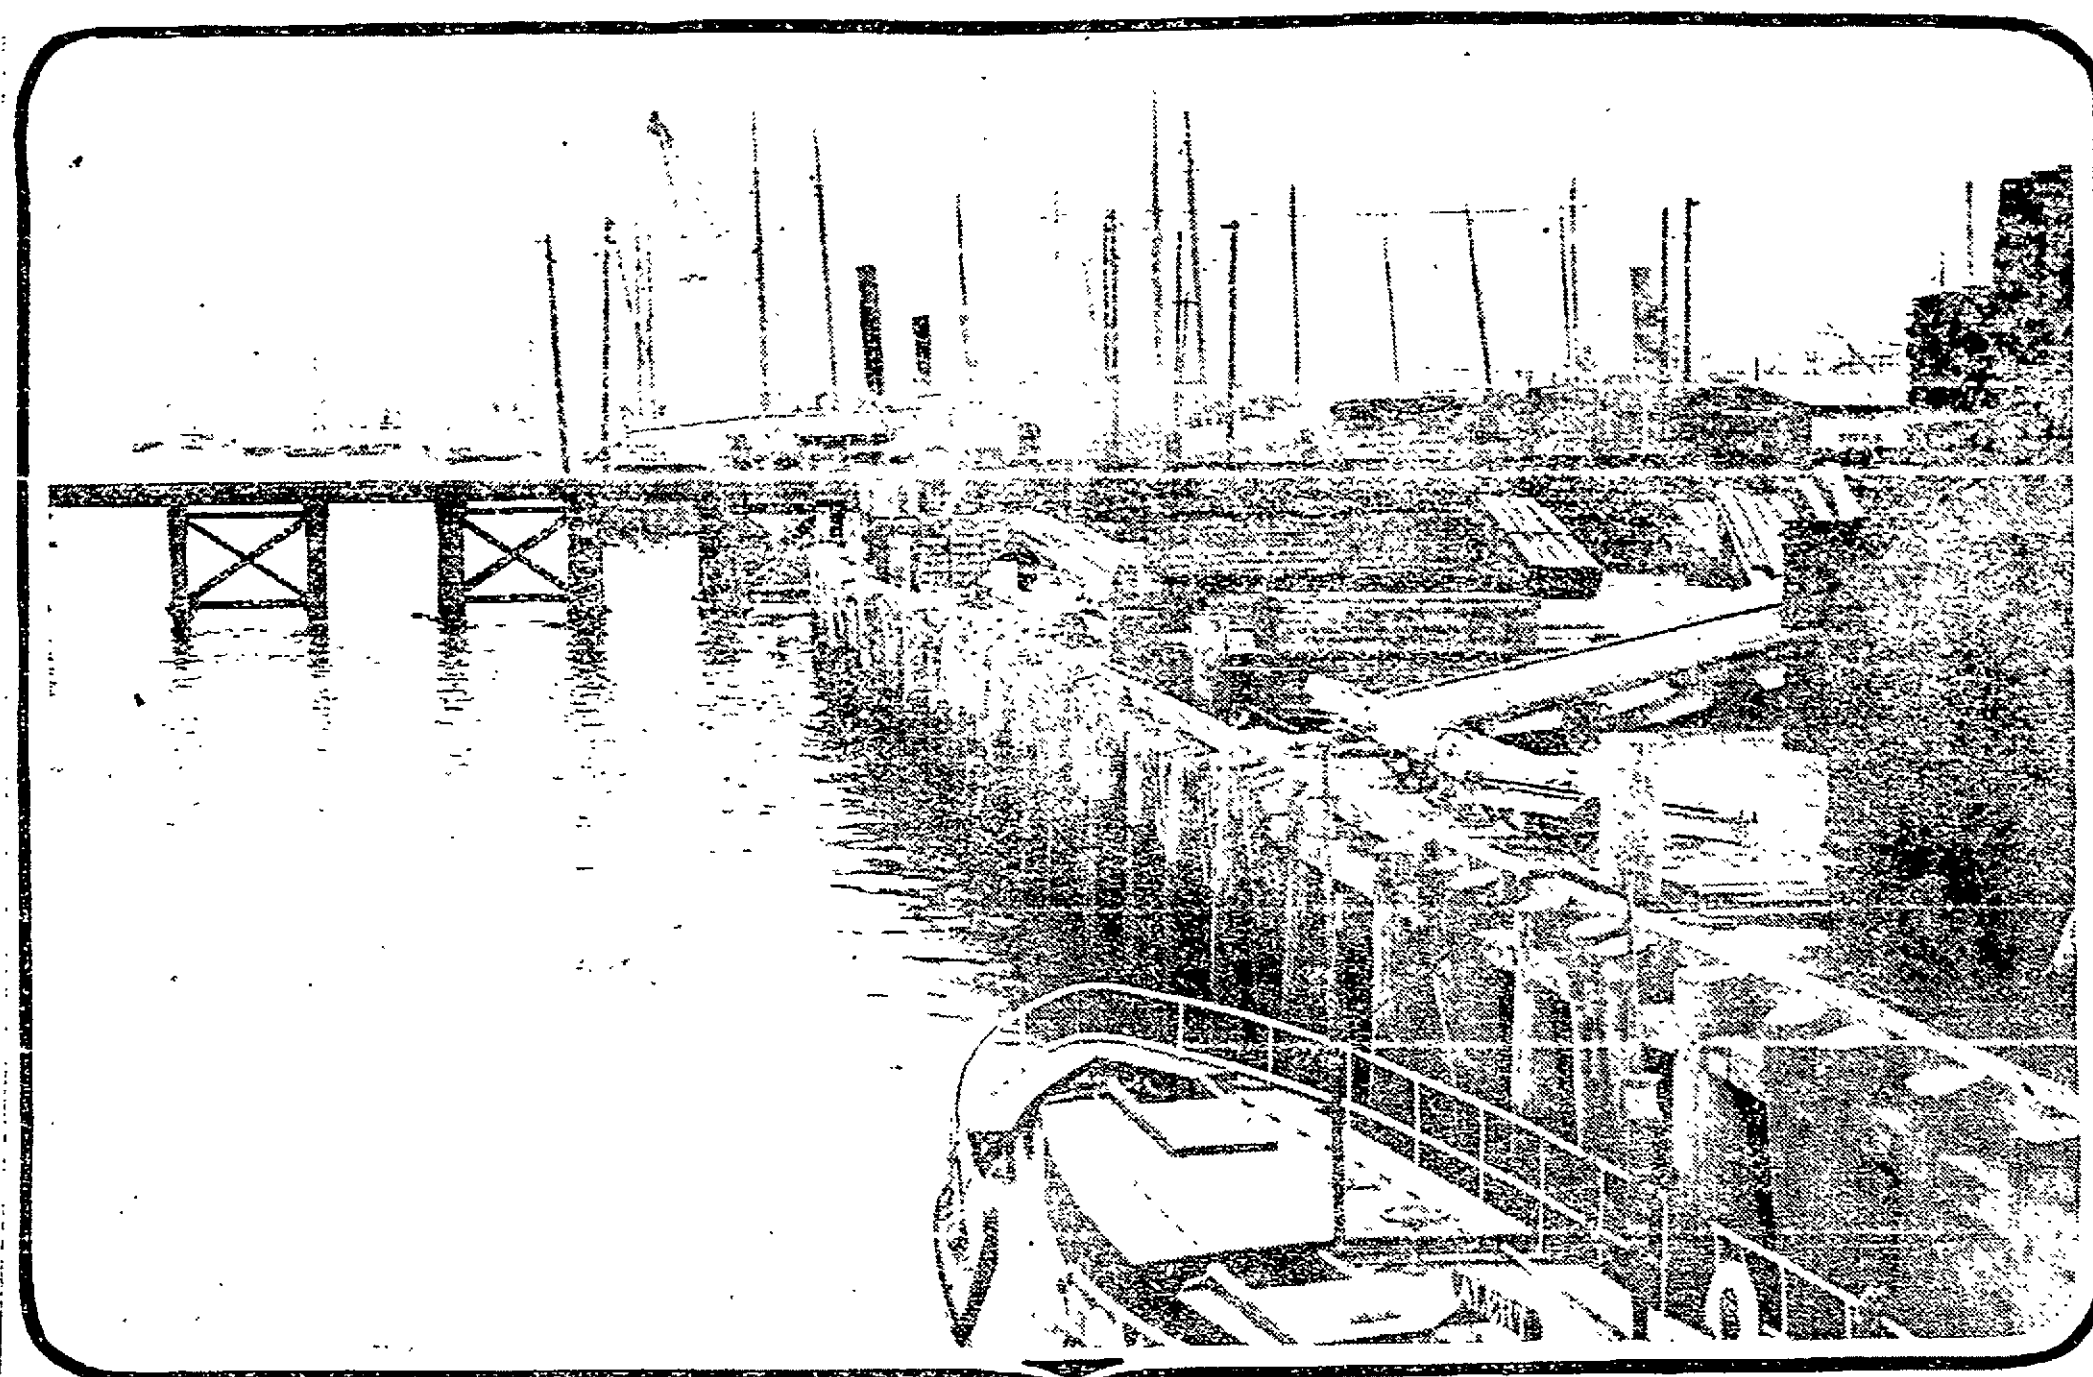

The several new buildings of importance which have been under construction are progressing rapidly. The lower floor of the Elston & Clark block at Durant and Telegraph avenues is now occupied and interior finishing is being rapidly completed. The new Elks' building on Allison Way is practically ready for occupancy. The lower members expect to move their headquarters south after the first of the month. The steel work for the new federal building adjoining is practically complete and stone work is making progress. The row of stores on Center street, recently gutted by fire, is being rebuilt. Among the permits recently granted were the following:

C. R. Hodgkins, San Benito and Spruce, $2,000.
S. G. Rankin, Sonoma and Monterey, $2,800.
Loomis Engler, Alcatraz and Idaho, $1,600.
Z. M. Stevens, Marin avenue and Fresno, $2,000.
W. H. Montgomery, Colusa and Joseph, $3,000.
Richard Kosky, Allston Way and Browning, $2,500.
H. E. Pincus, Rose Terrace, $4,000.
Fred Kosh, Shattuck and Berryman, $1,500.

DIRECT RAILWAY ROUTE TO HUMBOLDT PLANNED

Northern California County Keenly Interested in Project for Direct Railroad to East Bay Cities

The people of Humboldt county—that vast, rich, newly-opened empire of the northwest—are keenly interested in the project looking toward a direct line of transportation between their country and the east bay cities. This is the report brought back to Oakland by a number of those who last week attended the ceremonies at the opening of the Northwest Pacific line through to Eureka. Humboldt county produces $1,000,000 worth of lumber and $2,000,000 worth of dairy products yearly and expects to ship vast quantities of these products, especially shingles and finished redwood lumber, by rail to points in the east.

It is clearly recognized that the terminal arrangements of the Northwest Pacific line through to Eureka, especially the shingle manufacturers, that a direct line of transportation between their country and the east bay cities is a project of the highest importance. The project is being pushed forward by the Humboldt county people, who are keenly interested in the project looking toward a direct line of transportation between their country and the east bay cities.

At Point San Pablo, which is at the north end of the Richmond ridge of hills, there is forty feet of water and the terminus of the Richmond Belt Line Railroad. This railway connects with the Santa Fe and Southern Pacific at Richmond. To connect McNear's Point with the Richmond Belt Line Railroad means only the construction of two or three miles of line. With this construction, cars could be transferred directly from Marin county to Contra Costa county and put on their way east over either the Southern Pacific or the Richmond Belt Line. The project is being pushed forward by the Humboldt county people, who are keenly interested in the project looking toward a direct line of transportation between their country and the east bay cities.

The distance between Point San Pablo and McNear's Point is only one mile as compared with many miles between Tiburon and San Francisco and San Francisco and Oakland. A car of shingles or finished redwood lumber from Humboldt county would save practically a day, if the Marin-Contra Costa ferry were in operation, over the time now required in bargeing twice across the bay.

DEPARTURE OF SHIPS MARKS CITY'S FUTURE

Great Vessels Leave Oakland Harbor Loaded With Freight for Ports of Europe

The leaving of three ships, loaded with freight, and bound for Europe via the Panama Canal, this week marked the beginning of Oakland's future as a shipping center on the Pacific coast. Three big vessels left from the bay, two bearing on identifiable cargoes of Oakland and Alameda county products, and in the meantime several more vessels, which are to dock in the estuary, are preparing to take on more cargoes.

"The shipping activities of Oakland have begun," declared Harbor Manager W. W. Keith. "For the first few weeks after the canal opened no one noticed the difference, but the departure of the ships that have recently left, small as the event is compared to the great activity that is to come, has opened a new era of the bay region to the possibilities of harbor development."

VAQUE DESCRIPTION CAUSES LITIGATION

(Twenty-sixth case in a series of recent real estate decisions affecting agents and owners, summarized for THE TRIBUNE by Attorney Charles G. White of Oakland, lecturer in law at the University of California, and member of the firm of Dunn, White & Aiken.)

In the recent case of Leonard vs. Osburn, 19 Cal. App. Dec. 431, the court was called upon to decide whether or not under the particular facts in that case a mistake in a deed in confusing two maps rendered it void.

Plaintiff sued defendant to quiet his title to the land in question. Both claimed under deeds from the same party made over twenty years ago. It appeared at the trial in the Superior Court in Santa Cruz that the property in question was Lot 10, Block 2, subdivision No. 6 of Twin Lake Park, surveyed by E. D. Perry and that the only survey of that subdivision was made by Perry.

On Beckwith had made a plat of Subdivision No. 1 of Twin Lake Park, but there was no lot 10 in block 2 of that, the block being not divided on the Beckwith map but reserved as a site for a church built in 1890. The defendant's claim to said lot was based upon a deed to Higgins, dated August 4, 1892, and filed for record August 27, 1892, some four months prior to the date of the deed to Adams under which the plaintiff claims. The defendant's deed described the land as "lot 10, block 2, subdivision No. 6, as the same is shown on the map of Twin Lake Park made by N. E. Beckwith, surveyor, and filed May 29, 1890, in the office of the Recorder of Santa Cruz County."

Beckwith never made such a map. The plaintiff, Leonard, claimed under a deed of said lot to Adams, dated December 18, 1892, and filed for record on May 23, 1893. In this deed the lot is correctly described as being shown on the map of Surveyor Perry. The evidence indicated that the Beckwith subdivision 1 had been sold first, and that in selling lots in subdivision 6 the same printed form of deed was used and indicated that the blanks were filled in without changing the surveyor's name or the listing date of the map.

It was also shown that both plaintiff and defendant were bona fide purchasers for value, and that both their and their predecessors had no actual notice of the other's claim. It was also admitted that the only notice that the plaintiff or his predecessors had as to the existence of the earlier deed to defendant's predecessors was such constructive notice as was disclosed by the records of Santa Cruz county containing the imperfectly described deed under which defendant claimed.

The superior court at Santa Cruz held that the early deed under which defendant claimed was void for uncertainty and gave judgment for plaintiff. "The questions for decision," says Justice Kernham of the District Court of Appeal, "are: (1) Is the description in the earlier deed so vague or inaccurate as to be void for uncertainty? and (2) Is such description, in a deed duly recorded, sufficient with notice to lot 10 of block 2, subdivision 6, according to the map by E. D. Perry, had been conveyed to the plaintiff, to constitute constructive notice to the defendant's predecessors?"

It was shown by competent testimony that the deed described in the deed through which defendant claims title was from the description therein in the early deed, notwithstanding the false reference to the map. The deed, therefore, cannot be regarded as void for uncertainty. A deed will be sustained if it is possible from the above description of section and

NEW SUBDIVISIONS TO BE PLACED ON MARKET

Several Important Realty Deals Consummated This Week That Will Throw New Tracts on the Market

Several important realty deals in Oakland this week, and one large tract transaction in Berkeley, marked the increasing activity in local realty markets. Following the announcement that several tracts about Oakland, handling large acreages, are to be opened in the near future, several of these transactions have not yet been announced by the dealers, the papers having not yet been here recorded. One important plan is for the development of a half-acre tract near San Lorenzo. This deal is nearly completed, according to parties interested in the movement.

The Spring deal is for several blocks of land, as well as a number of important broken pieces, adjoining the original tract. The San Lorenzo deal is for a larger acreage, several old ranches being included in the negotiations now under way.

KEY SYSTEM SELLS LAND. The San Francisco-Oakland Terminal Railroad this week disposed of their holdings at Piedmont avenue and Amherst street, a portion of an old station building. This will be used as residence property. The buyer is Bonner J. Gordon.

DEED NOT VOID. "The deed not being void for uncertainty, is the record of such a deed, containing though it does an inaccurate description of the property conveyed, sufficient to put subsequent purchasers upon inquiry so as to charge them with notice of what that inquiry duly prosecuted would have disclosed."

An improvement plan that will, according to realty men, do much to enhance the success of lake district realty, especially about Oakland avenue, is the recently announced plan of W. H. Roole for the reopening of the Piedmont Baths. The plan, as designed to place before the city council for a permit, involves the laying of pipes to the estuary for the barbing of water from the bay. The baths, according to the plan of the new firm which is now arranging to take over the project, will be known as the Lullwater Baths. A large sum was involved in the purchase.

HUNDREDS OF SHIPS REACH OAKLAND

Waterfront Activities During Month Makes Remarkable Record.

Two hundred and fourteen ocean-going vessels arrived at Oakland during the past month, handling 118,799 tons of freight, one of the most remarkable showings ever made in the city since the recent factory boom started. The figures show a steady increase in the number of ships arriving, and the opening of wider activities that, according to experts, are hastening Oakland's factory supremacy.

The figures, as collected by Statistician D. H. Bradley of the Chamber of Commerce, are, he declares, evidence of the opening of a remarkable manufacturing season, and that Oakland is already established as a manufacturing city is shown, according to his report, by the other figures, an account of the prizes won by Oakland manufacturers at the recent State Fair.

"Alameda county," says his report, "has made a splendid showing of factory products at the State Fair, where the exhibits were handled in cooperation with the Alameda County Exposition Commission."

Many new factories established recently in Oakland are shown on the new membership lists of the manufacturers' committee, which has listed as members the following new and important enterprises: Standard Paper Company, Pacific Paper Products Company, Long Automatic Systems Company, Graves-Spear Road Machinery Company, Bay City Cabinet Company, Western Electric Light Bath Cabinet Company, American Coin Register Company, M. H. Robinson, Cuth Manufacturing Company, Zuercher Bros. & Davidson, California Mission Furniture Manufacturing Company.

While a number of these factories have been in existence as branches or smaller additions for some time, the committee marks a new line of expansion work in all of these, while the remainder are enterprises new to the city.

JUMP AT ADVANTAGES. "The signs of activity led them to hurry these plans, that they might take advantage of present low prices and choice of the best locations and accommodations for their work." That the Panama canal is in a large measure responsible is the declaration of Secretary Jones. In his report he deals with this phase as follows:

"The canal is open. The opening did not like Kipling's dawn, 'Come up like thunder across the China sea,' but the daylight is here. One of the things to be seen by that light is this bay for Gulf and Atlantic ports in the last two months. More will come and go because the rates from the Pacific Coast to Gulf ports and the Middle West States are from two-thirds to one-half the all-rail rates."

That tells the whole story. Oakland citizens have only to learn the full, true meaning of the lesson.

We hear so much about old eyes—"so-and-so has old looking eyes," or "so-and-so has bright, young looking eyes"—and some people are cruel enough to say that the bright, young looking eyes are an indication of ignorance. That is not true. Rather is it an indication of intelligent consideration for the eyes. Tired, sunken eyes are signs of neglect, and nine-tenths of the people in this world neglect to care for their eyes. They read in poorly lighted rooms, they rub their eyes with soiled fingers, and rarely wash the eyes.

I have had people ask me how to make their eyes look fresh and young, and after telling them carefully what to do they would exclaim: "Oh, I wouldn't take the time to do that."

Our eyes are the most necessary of all of our faculties, and ordinary common sense ought to teach us how to care for them. They should be exercised every day to give strength to the muscles. It takes but a few moments. Look up to the ceiling, then look down at the tip of the nose with both eyes at the same time, repeating the exercise ten times. Look straight ahead, then look with both eyes around to the right, from center to right, ten times. Then from center to left ten times. That is all. It is simple, but such eye exercise will give strength to the eye muscles and improve the sight and brilliancy of the eyes.

Cleanliness also is necessary to keep the eyes young. An eye cup should be used night and morning. No medicine is necessary, simply warm water is sufficient to wash out the dust and particles that collect inside the eyelids.

Reading under a poor light causes more eye troubles than any other thing people are careless enough to do, and persons who read themselves to sleep always awake with puffy eyes.

It requires but a little time, thought, and attention to keep the eyes young and bright. Years have nothing to do with fading eyes. There are many old people who have never required glasses and whose eyes are bright and beautiful. Strong lights are injurious to the eyesight, and dim lights are fatal. The old-fashioned candle light was the best ever known for resting the eyes. Hundreds of them would never cause a glare. They were always soft and mild upon the optic nerves. Today we have too much light, and generally all in one part of a room. If rooms were evenly lighted all around, the eye would never feel the glare, but when one light is all in one place either one eye or the other suffers.

When you read or sew sit with your back toward the light and so that the light falls over the left shoulder. If you are reading hold your book or paper nearly on a level with your eyes and at a distance of about twelve inches from your eyes. When you sew hold the goods you are working on at least twelve inches from the eyes. Sewing on black goods by artificial light should be absolutely forbidden. Reading in a recumbent position is a pernicious habit and it is especially injurious when convalescing from an illness or when tired, and reading in moving vehicles or trains is injurious to all eyes.

The wearing of veils of any kind is not good for the vision, but the thick and dotted veils are most dangerous. If you insist on wearing a veil, as some women always will, let it be a veil with a single mesh, in which dots (if dots are insisted upon) are so far apart that none shall come over the eyes.

There are some colors that rest the eyes to look at. Dark greens and browns are most restful. Reds, orange, and light greens cause the eyes to smart if gazed at for any length of time.

Staring is a disagreeable eye habit that should be discouraged in the beginning.

It is extremely rude to stare at people whether they are strangers or acquaintances. If people who have the staring habit could see themselves as others see them they would be more careful. It is extremely embarrassing to people when they find staring eyes fixed upon them. It makes them uncomfortable. The stare suggests that some article of wearing apparel is disordered, that the hair or hat is tumbling down, or that another more serious mishap is their lot. Even people who are fond of attracting special attention become fidgety under a stare.

A person who is in the habit of staring at people in the street car, church, or other public place, will do the same over the dinner table, cards, or a cup of tea. Wherever they go they make people uncomfortable. Any habit that adversely affects others should be avoided. It is not only improper to stare at friends but it is also impudent. You should always accord the stranger the same consideration that you would offer to a friend. The stranger of today may be the friend of tomorrow.

There are also other reasons why such a practice should be avoided. The stare mars the appearance of the whole face. The stern, set expression that accompanies it is the enemy of beauty. Notice the face of the person who is staring and all you will see is the stare. Even though the eyes are beautiful in color and size, they lose every attraction by that steadfast gaze. The whole face seems to resolve itself into a stare. The mind behind it appears to wither until it becomes a blank.

Unfortunately the person who acquires the habit of staring upon persons and material things, soon begins to stare upon imaginary figures that are created by the mind and which do not actually appear before the eye. This cultivates a blank expression that takes all life and beauty out of the face. It suggests absent mindedness. There is nothing desirable that can be acquired through the stare.

It is right to give every speaker the proper attention through the eye, but the attentive eye is not the staring eye. Attention will be properly measured as long as the mind dwells upon the subject discussed. As soon as the mind wanders from that subject the eye naturally fails to exhibit interest and staring is liable to begin. This is possibly the most disconcerting form of staring.

The eye is a wonderful organ. It is also a weapon. It clearly mirrors what is back of it, if permitted to do so. It can also be made to mar or increase the beauty of the face. It can add to the comfort or discomfort of those upon whom it falls. See that the glance of wonder or surprise is not liable to become an impudent stare.

the root of the trouble. Another more frequent cause is the indifferent manner in which women attend to their ablutions. Many women do not mean to be neglectful, but for one reason or another rush through, omitting the essential care and consideration which are positively necessary when cleanliness is to be assured. Soap and water alone will not thoroughly cleanse the skin. A good cold cream must be used. Never use coarse or harsh towels on the complexion. This has a tendency to coarsen and thicken the skin. The skin on the face is more sensitive and delicate than on any other part of the body, and should naturally be treated with respectful care. If you will write me again, inclosing a stamped addressed envelope, I shall be glad to send you the green soap treatment for blackheads and formula for an excellent cold cream, also the astringent lotion formula for closing enlarged pores.

B. K.: Once a week is too often to wash the hair. Massage your scalp each night. This will make it more flexible and cause the oil to become more evenly distributed through the hair. Send me a stamped, addressed envelope and I will send you a formula for tonic and a shampoo for oily hair.

E. K.: The teeth should be thoroughly cleansed in the morning with a good tooth brush, not too stiff, and a good tooth powder or paste. After each meal they should be brushed with clear water, and before retiring should be thoroughly cleansed. To bleach the teeth, brush them once a week with peroxide. If there is tartar on your teeth, go to a good dentist and have it removed. The teeth should be examined every six months to keep them in good condition. Nothing adds to one's beauty like pretty teeth, but is there anything worse than to see a pretty face with two rows of uneven, decayed teeth? Every one should have well cared for teeth; there is no excuse for not having them.

E. G. L.: fallow skins may be made pink and white by perfect exercise and diet—just a couple of miles of walking and a milk and egg diet. Oatmeal is also good. There is seldom a real excuse for a sallow complexion if one has the desire to cure the defect. Do not eat sweet foods and do not drink tea or coffee. Raw carrots eaten with salt are good; they may also be cooked if desired. Eat plenty of green vegetables, but do not eat rich, greasy meats. It is best to leave meat entirely alone. My rules for health and beauty are: Eat just enough, drink only water, walk two or three miles a day, and sleep eight hours.

MRS. W.: Milk is the most digestible of foods if consumed in a reasonable way. A glass of milk should never be taken in one swallow. If it is it will form into a solid clot in the stomach. It should be sipped slowly and bread or crackers taken with it will greatly aid its digestion. It takes about two hours for a glass of milk to digest. If lime water is taken with the milk it is less liable to form the clots. Botted milk is more digestible than raw milk. Eggs are almost as nutritious as meat. They are easily digested when soft boiled or poached. Toast eaten with soft boiled eggs makes them more easily digested. Chicken, fresh beef, and lamb are the most easily digested meats. Veal and pork are both difficult to digest. Steak should be broiled, as fried meats are hard to digest. Vegetables and fruits are more digestible when cooked. Butter supplies to most people the largest amount of fat they take. It is easily digested. Tea, coffee, and cocoa all retard gastric digestion, though cocoa is the most nutritious. Coffee should never be taken more than twice a day, and the amount should be limited to one cup at breakfast and one at dinner. Drinking it to excess seriously interferes with digestion, and its continuous use may lead to chronic dyspepsia and insomnia.

QUESTIONER: Of all forms of exercise for health and beauty none can supersede walking. When dressing for the walk you must remember that a skirt should be worn that gives plenty of freedom to the limbs; also a comfortable pair of high shoes. Jaded, with low, fat heels should be worn. The question of how long a walk should be must be left to yourself to decide. Do not walk until you are too tired to take another step. As you become more accustomed to walking you can lengthen the walking distance. Start with a half hour's walk, then increase it. From thirty to forty-five minutes regular walking every day is sufficient for most women. One important point, however, to bear in mind is that during the walk the carriage should be erect, the shoulders held back, and the head up.

BALLOTING BIG ISSUE IN U. S.

Elections to Take Place in All Sections of This Country

Senators and Governors Will Be Named in Many States

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Probably the most peculiar political campaign in the history of the United States practically came to an end tonight. There will be scattered meetings at some places Monday, but generally speaking, the heavy work is over and all that remains is the recording of the decision of the people. The result will be decided in every Eastern state by a silent vote of great proportions.

Chief interest naturally is in the national factors. An entire House of Representatives and 31 United States Senators will be elected. There has been a sweeping shaking up in the list, several of the leading Senators having refused to be candidates to succeed themselves. The states regarded as doubtful where the fight has been usually picturesque are Colorado, Connecticut, Idaho, Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, New Hampshire, Nevada, New York, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Utah, Vermont, Wisconsin and Washington. Of these states Colorado, Oregon, Nevada and Indiana are represented by Democrats, the balance by Republicans.

New York, Pennsylvania, Kansas and Illinois have been centers of great activity in the general campaign and both sides were reported tonight to be claiming victory.

There are many interesting state fights. Here in New York, Governor Glynn, who succeeded to his present position after Governor William Sulzer was impeached and removed, is a candidate for election, opposed by Sulzer, who is running as the American and Prohibition candidate; District Attorney Charles S. Whitman, the Republican candidate and Frank M. Davenport, a Progressive. The first days of the campaign found the religious issue raised.

Tonight Glynn was the center of a series of windup rallies, speaking from the same platform with Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, President Wilson's son-in-law. In a statement issued tonight he claimed his

LOST WILL IN TOY

Man's Inheritance Is Nearly Thrown Away by Careless Children.

Playing with a hollow wooden ball, found in a trunk and tossed carelessly aside, children about the Hayward Hotel yesterday, found, caught and several times almost lost a fortune of $1500 concealed in a hollow space in the sphere. The ball contained a will, leaving this sum to Charles Soderberg, and soon to be filed in the Alameda county superior court.

The will, made by the late Professor William Voet, musician, had been placed in the "magic ball," a wooden sphere presented him by Soderberg, who was the only man beside Voet to know its secret. A secret code named the ever-recaptured, when Soderberg, arriving at Hayward yesterday, showed the secret of the ball.

The musician died last Saturday, and friends, looking over his effects, sought a will in vain. In going through the trunk they came across the ball. It was dropped to the floor, and later presented to several children, guests of the hotel. For a time it lay in the yard, forgotten, and then it was picked up, Soderberg, an old friend of the dead man, arrived to look after the estate, and found the ball.

"Why, it's the old German 'magic ball' I gave him!" exclaimed Soderberg. He opened the receptacle. There, folded into the compartment was a will, leaving to him the sum of $1500 as a "debt of gratitude."

The Hayward musician died at the Hayward hotel Saturday, after a brief illness. He was prominent in local musical circles and had lived in Hayward for some years.

Soderberg was formerly local agent for the Southern Pacific at Hayward, and close friendship existed between the two men.

Professor Voet, when he first came to California, had been aided by Soderberg, and it is believed that he had intended to notify the latter of the secret of the ball before his death.

Mercantile Leader Tries to Take Life

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 31.—Walter Piehl, general manager of the Chicago-Stevens Mercantile Company of Chicago, shot himself while at the company's temporary St. Louis office today. He left three notes to persons in Chicago, which were taken by the police. Piehl was rushed to a hospital, where it was said his condition was critical.

CABINET OF ITALY OUT

Result of Position That the War Turn Has Caused

ROME, Oct. 31.—The entire Italian cabinet resigned late today. The first intimation that the ministry might step down as a result of the position Italy now occupies in the war situation came when Minister of the Treasury Rubini stepped out. The resignations of all ministers were then submitted to King Victor Emmanuel.

The king immediately asked Antonio Salandra, former premier, to undertake the formation of a new cabinet.

It has generally been accepted that should Italy be forced into a position as a result of which it would be necessary to choose definitely whether she would stand by the allies or cast her fortunes with the entente, the resignation of the cabinet would follow unless it was decided to stand by Germany and Austria.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—It was reported here tonight that the Italian cabinet had resigned. Confirmation from an authoritative source was lacking, but it was assumed that, if true, it represented a war move forced by the action of Turkey.

King Albert Thanks U. S. for Its Aid

LONDON, Oct. 31.—From the trenches where he and the remnants of his army are under the fire of the Germans in the minute section of Belgium yet left to him, King Albert has forwarded a touching appeal to America on behalf of his stricken kingdom. It reached here tonight, addressed to the American-Belgian relief committee, and in it the king said: "I am informed that American officials in Belgium and England are working to save my people from the horrors of the famine that now threatens them. It is a great comfort to me in this hour of sorrow to feel that a great-hearted and disinterested people is directing these efforts to relieve the distress of the unoffending civilian population of my country. Despite everything they have already suffered, the coming winter must be terrible, but the burden will be lightened if the people can be spared the pangs of hunger and the frightful consequences of disease and violence. "I confidently hope that the appeal of the American committee will meet with a generous response. The whole-hearted friendship of the United States has shown to my people at this time that it will always be a most precious memory to me."

Eleanor Glyn's Hero Is Victim of Poison

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—"Prince Paul de Clairmont, an actor, who said he was the hero of Eleanor Glyn's famous novel, "Three Weeks," was found dead in bed in a west-side rooming house here today. A coroner's physician says that he had committed suicide by eating a half-rotten sandwich found on a nearby table contained poison. It was learned by the physician that a well-dressed woman claiming to be Clairmont's wife appeared at the lodging house a short time before the body was discovered. After going to the actor's room she came down stairs and threw a small tin into an ash barrel on the street, after which she entered a large automobile. There were two other women in the machine. The physician found the can of poison of which he said was a deadly poison.

Western Jobbers Ask for Switching Refund

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Claims for repayment on illegal charges exacted by transcontinental railroads for switching cars in Los Angeles and San Francisco, which are expected to aggregate tens of thousands of dollars, are being filed with the interstate commerce commission. The Associated Jobbers of Los Angeles today filed claims amounting to more than $25,000. Claims of the organization in San Francisco and of individual shippers will amount to a large sum. The commission held in 1913 that a switching charge of $2.90 a car was illegal. The railroads carried the case to the United States Supreme Court, and the court sustained the decision. The shippers ask a refund of the amounts paid since the order was entered by the commission.

Bride Elect Killed in Tragic Plunge

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 31.—A pretty romance was tragically shattered today when Miss Jessie J. Miller, a bride-to-be, 24 years of age, fell through a trap door in the grocery conducted by her sweetheart, Jess Peterson, 1139 Folsom street, and was fatally injured. The young woman died at St. Luke's hospital late this afternoon. Peterson and Miss Miller were to have been married next week. She had just entered his store this morning, and in the darkness fell through the hatchway to the basement, fracturing her skull.

U. S. Transport Is at Hayti for Americans

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—The United States navy transport Hancock, carrying a regiment of marines, arrived at Port au Prince, Haiti, to protect Americans and their property if necessary during the revolutionary outbreak. The commanding officer will confer with the officials of the American legation there as to the need of landing marines.

DUTCH MAY BE FORCED TO FIGHT

Neutrality Threatened by Germans, Paris Declares

Antwerp to Be Base of Attack on England, Is Belief

PARIS, Oct. 31.—Germany plans her most determined move against England from Belgium, despite her strong efforts to break through and capture the northern French channel ports, according to latest reports received at military headquarters here. And in this connection there is a growing belief that Germany will violate Dutch neutrality by using Antwerp as a naval base. Reports reaching here today declare that German sappers and engineers are strengthening the defenses that have been erected in the vicinity of Brussels; are mining the roads about Brussels, Grammont, Loheln, Ghent and Antwerp, and are fitting and testing six submarines that have been sent to Antwerp. In addition other submarines are reported in the canal Zeebrugge and Bruges, being fitted for active service. Winter quarters are also being prepared in the neighborhood of Essen for several army corps.

PLANS ARE SHIFTED.

While this may be only a precautionary movement, the belief is general here that the German general staff has shifted its plans concerning the capture of Calais and Dunkirk. They have lost thousands of men in the fighting of the last thirteen days—some of the estimates place the number in excess of 150,000—and while the Germans are still west of the Yser at certain points, at others they have been driven several miles to the east of it. And, unless they can bring up reinforcements of not less than 200,000 men, they can hardly expect to get even within cannon range of the French coast positions. What is looked for by the officials at General Gallien's headquarters here is that the Germans will withdraw a material part of the army

Rio Vista Suspect Captured in Oregon

PENDLETON, OR., Oct. 31.—Through the aid of pictures, description and measurements, Sheriff T. D. Taylor today declared that he had positively identified a man giving the name of W. J. Gilmore, arrested on the charge of robbing a store at Echo a week ago, as William Clay, alias Richard Dillon, wanted in California in connection with the alleged murder of Night Watchman Powell Umigh at Rio Vista when the post-office safe was blown up at that place.

The safe was blown the night of August 29 by three men, one of whom killed the night watchman when he appeared on the scene. A man giving the name of Richard O'Connor was also arrested on suspicion of being one of the same. Sheriff J. J. McDonald of Fairfield, Cal., was notified.

Stork Hovering Over Sayre Home in East

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Oct. 31.—President Wilson will be a grandfather soon. The stork is hovering around the home of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Dorey Sayre, the latter of whom was Miss Jessie Woodrow Wilson, second daughter of the President.

Mrs. Sayre is a White House bride, the wedding having taken place in the historic east room, November 25, 1913. After a honeymoon trip, Sayre took his bride to Williamstown, where he became assistant to President Garfield of Williams College.

Fugitive Bandits in Custody in Lake Co.

MIDDLETOWN, Oct. 31.—Reports received here today from Coalhouse in the Bucksnod country, southeast of Middletown, state that Sheriff Kelton of Napa county has captured Bert Bell and Jack Fitzgerald, two of a trio of men alleged to have held up and killed H. W. Hornick, merchant and Wells-Fargo agent at Middletown, last May. Sheriff Dozier of Lake county is on his way to the Bucksnod country to assist in bringing in the men.

HERMES IS VICTIM OF TORPEDO

British Light Cruiser Sunk by German Submarine

Vessel Goes Down When Struck in Straits of Dover

LONDON, Oct. 31.—The British light cruiser Hermes, sister ship of the Highflyer, was today sunk by being torpedoed by a German submarine in the straits of Dover. Nearly all of the officers and men were saved, according to the official announcement made tonight.

The Hermes was built in 1897. She was 350 feet long, with a beam of 54 feet, a displacement of 5600 tons and a speed of 20 knots. Her armament consisted of eleven 6-inch, nine 3-inch and three machine guns, with two torpedo tubes. She carried a crew of 475 men.

WAS SHELLING GERMANS.

The admiralty announcement of the loss of the Hermes stated that, while it was believed that most of the officers and crew of the cruiser had been saved, the exact number of those lost would not be known until after the survivors could be mustered.

The Hermes was engaged in shelling the German positions along the coast when she was sunk. Previously the German submarine had attempted to torpedo the battleship Venerable, which had been operating along this section of the coast. Falling in this, she managed to torpedo the Hermes. The latter has been operating on coast patrol and with the blockading squadron since the war began. She is valued for her ability to patrol operation, but valueless for strategic operations.

Fight for Lives as Ship Batters Rocks

WHITBY, England, Oct. 31.—With a heavy sea breaking over the wreckage and a high wind baffling all attempts of rescuers to reach the stricken vessels, forty survivors of the hospital ship Rohilla were fighting for their lives tonight. Since the vessel went ashore and broke in two during a gale, all on board have put up a brave struggle. Twelve bodies have been washed ashore. Despite the apparent hopelessness of the attempt many jumped into the sea and endeavored to swim ashore. Thirteen succeeded during the afternoon and brought word that all others on board were all but overcome from exhaustion. Several dived into the sea tonight and were dragged ashore safely.

The captain of the Rohilla signaled this afternoon that he "would hold on to the last." Many survivors can be seen clinging to the rigging, but rescuers have been unable to get a line to them.

Former Minister to Formally Take Leave

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—George Fred Williams of Boston, former United States Minister to Greece and Montenegro, whose criticism of the European powers for their conduct in Albania led to a request for his resignation early in July, arrived at New York today on board the steamship Nieuw Amsterdam from Rotterdam. Williams said that he was not forced to resign, but he admitted that the statement attributed to him was undiplomatic, and he, therefore, tendered his resignation and is now on his way to Washington, to officially sever his connection with the diplomatic service.

Slayer Sings as He Walks in Jail Yard

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 31.—Samuel J. Haber, who is to hang December 15th for the murder of Cherry de St. Maurice, took his first exercise in the Folsom prison yard, ironed to Charles Carson, also condemned, who has not spoken a word for several years. Haber appears to be in good spirits, and has been singing since being taken to the condemned cell. Reports to Sheriff Donnelly from Folsom prison are that he has given no indications of a breakdown.

Rebel Band Attacks Town in Ecuador

QUAYULA, Ecuador, Oct. 31.—Continuing their campaign against the present administration of the Republic of Ecuador, a rebel band of about 300 men attacked the town of Emmeralles, on the sea coast, ninety-five miles northwest of Quito, today. They were repulsed by the government forces after six hours of fighting, and left behind them 100 men in killed and wounded. The government force sustained few losses.

SOLDIER IN LONG FIGHT IS STARVED

Diary, Found in Trench, Describes Battle and Privation

PARIS, Oct. 31.—Here is the story of a German private who was found dead in a trench—not dead from wounds, but from starvation—and this story, in the form of a diary kept apparently up to the last day, was found on him. It begins with the advance of the crown prince's army upon the Marne after the battle of Charleroi and the fall of Longwy. It covers the battle of the Marne and the greater part of the campaign in the Aisne.

"Yesterday was a day of rejoicing. Our first army has pushed back the French, defeated a division of English cavalry and is before the gates of Paris. In Russia our troops have taken 150,000 prisoners. The joy would have been greater if we had had something to eat. Our division leaves for Marson, Samund and Bosnet, where we are to bivouac before crossing the Marne tomorrow. We hope to get rations there."

"We finally stopped long enough to take a bite. It did not take long, because what they gave us was just enough to put a sharper edge on our appetites. Then we went toward the Marne, pushing back detachments of the French. They lost, having the very edge of the stream; our advance guard was even partly across the bridge when their artillery opened fire. It seemed to us that it opened the gates of hell at the same time. We could not advance and we had no orders to retreat. We could only stand and watch the carnage around the bridge, where our losses were terrible. We succeeded in saving the flag and our commander and then were ordered to retire. It was not exactly a defeat, the officers say—only a retirement. The battle resumed a little later and lasted nearly all night. We went forward again, but were obliged to dig ourselves in to escape the terrible artillery fire. Our own guns seemed to be weak."

"This morning the French flying machines are circulating above us incessantly, obliging us to keep to our trenches. Our artillery seems unable to dislodge the French guns and we fear an infantry attack from the left. It is an artillery day and our troops occupying the canal bank have suffered terribly. Out of sixty men twenty-five only remained when the combat was suspended without decisive results. We got out of the trenches toward 9 o'clock and were lucky enough to dig up some raw potatoes, which comforted us a little."

"At 2 o'clock today we were ordered to leave the trenches. We thought it would be to attack the enemy, but it seems we are to go back. Two French army corps have pierced our lines. Away we went without taking time to eat."

"Today we had a little bread with coffee. We are suffering terribly from privation and exhaustion. They tell us we are executing a turning movement, not a retreat. To us it looks like flight. Finally we arrived at Souain, where we hoped to eat, but instead of rations they gave us shovels with which to dig trenches in the pouring rain. While we were at it French shrapnel drove us back with the trenches uncompleted."

"Today we have dug ourselves in again—and remained stuck all day in our trenches. We have eaten nothing since yesterday, but we can't leave the trenches because of the shower of shrapnel from the enemy's guns. Finally this afternoon we had our first reprieve for several days, consisting of rice with a little meat and bread and a morsel of bacon. It was like a drop of water on a hot iron."

"It is a dog's life we are leading and we shall soon be sick—every man. We are all nearly famished."

"Today the devilish French guns have swept off half of our company. Their fire is so constant that we have not time to fire ourselves. We are still confined to the trenches and it is two days since we were served meager rations of rice and coffee made with rain water. Cold north winds have added to our suffering. Many of the men are so cramped with rheumatism that we are obliged to lift them out of the trenches."

"Today we have eaten again and the rations were more generous, but it seems impossible for us to satisfy our hunger."

"This morning happily it does not rain, but the tempest blows from the north and makes us feel our hunger all the more. They say there are plenty of provisions in the rear; the question is to get them to us in face of the French artillery, which sweeps the ground constantly and makes life impossible except under cover of the trenches. Hunger is terrible. I suffer horribly from the cold also. I am no longer able to keep up. I don't think I can last much longer."

RUSSIA TO HURL GREAT ARMIES AT OTTOMAN EMPIRE

Ambassadors of Allies Ask Passports, Virtual State of War Having Existed Since Last Friday; Young Turks Becoming Aggressive; Germans Are Being Accused of Coercion

BERLIN, via The Hague, Oct. 31.—It was officially announced tonight that a wireless message received from Constantinople said that the Turkish government has issued a proclamation formally annexing Egypt, which is already under Turkish suzerainty.

It is understood here that the ambassadors of France, England and Russia have been given their passports and are now en route to neutral territory from Constantinople.

A virtual state of war between Turkey and the allies has existed since Friday evening.

RUSSIA-TURKEY WAR IS ON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—War has been officially declared between Turkey and Russia, according to a private message transmitted today from Constantinople here through the channels of the American government. It was dated late yesterday.

ENGLAND ACCEPTS TURKS' CHALLENGE.

LONDON, Sunday, Nov. 1.—England has accepted Turkey's challenge to battle. The foreign office made this certain when, early today, an official statement declared that "Turkey has forced war upon England."

The announcement by the foreign office is accepted as virtually a declaration of war, although it does not so state. It states that the Turkish government, Friday, cut off telegraphic communication with the British embassy at Constantinople, and adds: "This is doubtless a prelude to further acts of aggression."

Previously it had reviewed the situation and declared that, despite the promises of the allies to respect Turkey's integrity, the German influence had prevailed in Turkey. It characterized the actions of the Goeben and the Breslau in shelling the Russian Black sea towns as an "unprecedented violation of international law."

COERCION IS CHARGED BY ALLIES.

German officers were accused of coercing the Turkish administration and the direct accusation was made that the Turkish minister of war had laid plans for the invasion of Egypt from Damascus and Mosul.

Although no announcement has yet been made of a formal declaration of war, it is understood that Turkey absolutely rejected the ultimatum of the allies. They had demanded that the acts of the Goeben and the Breslau be disavowed and the two cruisers be dismantled and interned until the end of the war. Refusal was to be followed by the demand of the ambassadors of France and England for their passports. Russia's diplomatic representative had already left, having turned over the affairs of his country to the Italian embassy. It is believed here that this action has already been taken by these representatives and that they have already left Constantinople for neutral territory.

WAR PARTY IS IN ASCENDENCY.

It is not believed that Turkey will back down now. The war party is in the ascendancy. It backed the hostilities. The Young Turks are pro-German. They realize that Turkey has lost all of its prestige as the result of the fiasco of the Balkan war, and they hope that in some way they can gain again a "place in the sun." Because of this they have backed Turkey in her present desperate venture.

A statement issued at midnight flatly accused Turkey of bad faith and placed the blame squarely at the doors of German officers who in large numbers have flocked to Constantinople since the outbreak of the war.

TIME LIMIT IS FIXED FOR REPLY.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—The allies have served an ultimatum on Turkey. It was admitted here tonight that Russia, France and England are acting in concert in dealing with the latest crisis of the war. By direction of the foreign offices of the three nations their diplomatic representatives in Constantinople today formally demanded an explanation of the Black sea incidents and the bombardment of Russian ports and Russian shipping by the Turkish fleet.

Complete disavowal of the actions of the fleet was demanded and Turkey was also asked to immediately withdraw the German officers and men from the cruisers Goeben and Breslau and to dismantle these two warships for the remainder of the war.

A time limit has been set for the receipt of the reply, and if it is unsatisfactory, relations between the allies and Turkey will be immediately broken off.

RUSSIAN-TURKISH WAR IMMINENT.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 31.—News of a formal declaration of war by Turkey upon Russia was momentarily expected today. It was admitted in official circles that the Turkish cabinet has been in continual session at Constantinople since yesterday considering its plan of action. The diplomatic representatives of France and England were expected to stand by Russia and demand their pas-

Factional Warfare at Naco Renewed

NACO, Ariz., Oct. 31.—Renewal of the factional warfare between the Carranza and Huerta forces in the Naco district of Sonora, Mexico, is believed imminent.

Because of reports that Carranza's troops were preparing to begin an artillery attack on Naco, Sonora, many families today began preparations to leave their homes and move to Bisbee and other interior towns.

Roth Hill and Maytorena have received reinforcements of men and artillery. For this reason it is feared that Naco, Arizona, will suffer more than in previous attacks if hostilities are renewed.

COPPER SHIPMENTS ARE ON CONTRABAND LIST

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Copper shipments hereafter will be considered absolute contraband of war by the British government, according to the revised contraband list cabled to the State Department today by Ambassador Page in London.

The previous list classed copper as conditional contraband. The only other important change in the revised list is the placing of illuminating oil, heretofore unmentioned, on the conditional list.

TACKS LAID IN ROAD: REVENGE ON AUTO CLUB

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 31.—The local automobile club has been ordered to pay a fine of $100 for the conviction of the guilty party who placed about a gallon of tacks on the highway, which is traveled by President Pily of the club on his way to and from home.

The act is attributed to desire for revenge on the automobile club for tearing down advertising signs along the highway. President Pily has removed several hundred signs during the last few months. The tacks were picked up by the automobile people, and they have been traced to a certain firm doing business in another city that advertises tacking signs on fences and trees.

The tacks punctured the tire of a well-known doctor who was making a call upon a patient.

HEN TIES UP TRAFFIC.

PENDLETON, Ore., Oct. 31.—Not known, but a little hen tied up traffic on the busiest part of Pendleton's street for ten minutes. With a score of persons looking on and making facetious remarks, she calmly seated herself on the pavement under the car of Dr. R. E. Ringo, on Main street, and laid an egg.

The doctor returned the egg and will preserve it as a souvenir.

OPUM GOES UP.

STOCKTON, Oct. 31.—The latest to feel the war price is the opium market. The happy-thought stuff coming to this country is now selling, it is understood, for about $69 the tin. This is the highest price ever paid for the drug in the history of the traffic.

Therefore it was easy to purchase this around $19 and $25, and sometimes at a figure even lower than that.

FIFTY DIVORCES IN DAY'S WORK

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—The divorce court did a wholesale business yesterday with fifty decrees were given in one branch. The result of one recent divorce case was revealed when Dr. Herman

Graham, a dentist, filed a petition asking that he be granted the custody of two children, who were given to the mother by a court order in 1913.

The dentist alleges his former wife setting their children a bad example that she is living with F. L. Bell, who named co-respondent in their divorce case. Mrs. Graham filed suit for divorce in 1912 and Dr. Graham filed a cross bill.

was given a divorce and ordered to $20 a week for the children. Mrs. Graham said he had property valued at $100,000 and had $100 a week income.

Elmer Kirck, a friend of Dr. Graham testified he stopped in a park to use his pipe and accidentally discovered Dr. Graham sitting on a bench with Belt.

Charges that her husband has an uncontrollable temper and that he humiliated household furniture around whenever became ruffled, were made by Mrs. M. Kagan, wife of Dr. A. Samuel H. Kagan, a dentist in the Boston Dental Club. Mrs. Kagan alleged that her husband's income is about $200 to $250 a month.

"When I asked her to show me a receipt for that cause I had to feel a dread fear," the judge states.

A taxi cab picked up the suitcases at the door of the apartment.

KNOWLAND WINS, PREDICTS CURRY

Congressman From Third District Sees Death of the Third Party.

Charles F. Curry, congressional representative of the third district, returned to Oakland after a two years' absence, and is playing with his son at the Hotel Gremlin. His sister, a resident of Berkeley, is very ill and due to this his visit here from Sacramento may be longer than he expected.

In speaking of matter political and otherwise this morning, Curry expressed his opinion that the Progressive party would no longer be in existence. He said that if Hiram Johnson be again elected, he will be forced to become a non-partisan.

"Alameda county should for more reasons than one be strongly Republican, and why in the past they have elected the Democrats," he said.

On the ambitions of one man is more than I can understand. The party reminds me of the biblical parable of the house built on sand, and I think that this first storm will destroy it also.

"It seems to me," said Mr. Curry, "that if Colonel Roosevelt forswears such things as he intimates in his address to the Princeton students, it would be wiser for him to inform the government and offer them suggestions as to the manner in which such a catastrophe could be averted."

Joseph R. Knowland will be elected senator by a big vote. He has made a magnificent record in Congress. They can't beat him."

The congressman claims that the passing of the tariff bill that has done so much towards the tying-up of industry, was due in part to the Progressive candidates from this state, who argued unofficially and voted for the passing of the measure. He withheld the names of the two men in question from publication.

"One instance of the way in which the mountains are used up is shown very forcibly when I was passing through Kentucky, where there were some 20,000 cars of merchandise used up for months. The people have no one but themselves to blame for it, and I think that they are actually unwisely electing Johnson, he turned once and there is nothing to stop him from again changing his party at the first opportunity."

Curry will remain in Oakland, pending a change in condition in his sister, and will then return to Washington.

GYPSY'S WEALTH IS SOUGHT HERE

Attorneys in California Seek Mysterious Mines of Bleason Parsons.

Leaving vast holdings in California, and a few others which have not yet been learned by attorneys, who are traveling through California seeking to itemize an estimated $2,000,000 estate, Bleason Parsons, aged New Yorker, who dropped suddenly dead in the streets a few days ago, furnished a legal puzzle that has baffled some of the foremost lawyers of the State. The man left note books giving clues to some of his relatives. He also left accounts of some of his property and bare hints as to the rest. Out of these tangled hints and fragmentary figures the attorneys are searching all parts of the State for more property.

The papers found on the body disclosed a remarkable story of his wanderings over the earth for the past twenty-five years as a gypsy.

While he is said to have been worth over $100,000, he often stopped at a lodging-house at 63 New Bowery here.

A diary which he kept contains the record of a walk over 4000 miles in this country within the past two years.

FRIENDS FIND BODY.

The body was identified in the morgue by Dr. F. Booth, 141 East Third street, a distant relative, and Mrs. Benjamin F. Franklin of 258 Springfield street, Chicago, a sister-in-law, who were located from papers found in the man's pockets. At the direction of the relatives the body will be sent to Chicago for burial.

When the man died the diary was found on him, as well as receipts for deposits in a safe deposit vault at the New York Produce Exchange Bank, and bank books of the Seaman's Savings Bank and the East River Savings Institution. The man is said to have had the money deposited in other banks here and elsewhere, and according to Mrs. Franklin owned property in Boston, Porto Rico, Chicago and California.

Application has been made for permission to open the safe deposit vaults.

ONCE WAS JEWELER.

The morgue officials learned from Mrs. Franklin that Parsons was a wealthy jeweler in Chicago, Mass., until twenty-five years ago, when he retired from active business. He was then known to be very wealthy, and when he suddenly disappeared much money was lost. He reappeared, however, and soon went away again.

For a few years he continued to go away for short intervals, and finally he left the town and was not heard from for years.

The last heard from him was five months ago, when he was in Porto Rico, and at that time he mentioned that he had walked thousands of miles through the United States. He said he expected to return to Chicago for a short time.

Among the man's papers was found the name of Eugene Mulroy, the owner of a lodging-house at 62 New Bowery, and Mulroy identified the man as one who had often stopped at his lodging-house and with whom he had become very friendly.

AMATEUR CROOKS CAUGHT.

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 31.—Two burglars who broke into the home of Fred Larson at Del Mar last Monday used the residence as an improvised club for half a day and as a result were arrested yesterday in Rose Canyon, north of San Diego, by Deputy Sheriff J. M. Blodworth. After pinning the Larson's jewelry in an Oriental rug the two burglars lay around on rich divans, eating from the Larson larder and drinking from the Larson buffet. When the family returned they found clearances all over the house and remnants of fruit and food scattered over the remaining rugs.

Knowland Stands —Forth as— Senator of Future

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 30.—There never has been in this campaign from the beginning any doubt that Representative Knowland would be elected United States Senator. The party registration is conclusive on this point, showing 510,200 Republicans, 277,200 Democrats and 217,000 Progressives. That is to say the Republican registration exceeds that of the Democrats and Progressives combined.

Now here we have an active three cornered fight with two minorities fighting separately against one majority. If the two minorities were united on one candidate they might have a fighting chance, but contending separately and actively neither one has a chance in the world. As a mathematical proposition the divided front of the minority parties is a patent absurdity.

Minorities Playing a Cut-Throat Game

Now what do these remarkable registration figures mean? Of course we hear passionate appeals from the stump imploring voters to lay aside their partisan affiliations for this once. Obviously the only chance in the world for the Democrats or the Progressives lies in a landslide of something like 150,000 Republican voters to either one of the other candidates. To suppose that any such political cataclysm impends is absurd and foolish. Indeed the Republican party could lose 150,000 of its registered voters and unless these votes were united on one of the minority candidates Knowland must win.

National Principles Involved

These despairing appeals to lay aside party allegiance are characteristic of a beaten side. The thing sometimes works in the case of State offices where no important principle is involved, but in the election of Senators and Representatives in Congress men vote with their parties and when they register their affiliations it means that in national affairs they will vote that ticket. The figures then supply a convincing demonstration that Knowland's election is assured. Confession of this fact is found in the betting, or rather the lack of betting, in this city on the result of the senatorial election. Knowland's backers are offering any sort of odds desired on their candidate, but there are no takers.

True to California

Knowland has earned his promotion. As the leader of the State delegation in the lower house of Congress he made a great fight for the protection of California industries against a hostile majority. "I'm for California," is the keynote of his policy and action in Congress. His experience in the lower house peculiarly fits him to make a success in the other branch of Congress.

Creel's Bitter Epigrams

Hiram Johnson's appeal to Republicans to lay aside party allegiance and vote for him suggests George Creel's bitter epigram: "Johnson finds himself in the painful position of one who having divorced his wife discovers that his affinity has transferred her affections." The Progressive party at the present moment is held together only by the cohesive power of public plunder, by the hitherto unexampled debauch of official patronage. It is notorious that the ranks of the Progressives are torn by internal dissensions and hatred of the most bitter character. George Creel, who has been admitted to the inner councils of that party, speaks of the feud between Heney and Johnson and says the Governor hates Heney rancorously.

Charges of Treachery

This states of mind is pretty well understood by the general public and Johnson's hatred is returned with interest by Heney. Charges and counter-charges of treachery are bandied on both sides. Some useful, independent testimony on this subject from an inside source was supplied two years ago by Albert Lawrence Johnson, a nephew of the Governor and a son of that strange genius, the late Albert Johnson. Nephew Johnson's statement is a public document of considerable timely interest and it is reprinted here for the light it throws on the internal relations of the Progressive politicians. Young Johnson wrote:

Heney's Treachery

"Francis J. Heney, having made a most extraordinary attack upon me, and my motives in the present campaign, compels me to make an answer to the two specific charges made therein.

"Mr. Heney denies that he called Theodore Roosevelt the worst demagogue in the United States in January of this year, but I repeat that he declared it to friends in the city of New York, at the time when it was thought that Roosevelt would undermine all the Progressive work that had been done in the Republican party, by entering the contest as an eleventh hour candidate.

"Mr. Heney not only made this statement to La Follette's friends, among whom was Gilbert E. Hoar, La Follette's former law partner, but later spoke in a manner which denoted the character of Francis J. Heney, in that it disclosed the reason why he judges me, and everyone else, from his own selfish standpoint.

"Mr. Heney was asked how he could reconcile his treachery to Senator La Follette after his denunciation of Colonel Roosevelt in such unqualified terms, only a few weeks previous. Heney gave this as his reason, in substantially the following words:

"Oh, Governor Johnson and all his followers have flunged to Senator La Follette and I can never hope to get anywhere in California without the aid of Johnson."

"So the public can readily judge why Heney changed his opinions over night, to follow the leadership of my distinguished uncle.

"As a matter of fact, the Governor and Heney love each other like poison, and each is jealous of the part the other played in the graft prosecution.

Follows Father's Footsteps

"Now as to my motives. It is curious that I should have to defend them against my uncle's friends, when nearly everyone in California knows that my deceased father was the real original Progressive of the Johnson family and that my uncle never knew anything of these economic doctrines until my father converted him after he went into partnership with him, and then my uncle never was willing to fight for them.

"I intend to follow in my father's footsteps and so I fought the hopeless cause of La Follette in May when the treacherous leaders had turned the Progressive organization over to Roosevelt, the arch enemy of progress.

"I never asked my uncle, at any time, for a position under him. I received on three distinct occasions the promise of the Governor that he had something very good in store for me.

"This triple promise of my uncle has never been redeemed and I only make it public at this time to give the lie to the motive ascribed for my political attitude by Heney.

"I took my own political life and future in my hands when I stood by my written pledge to 'Bob' La Follette.

"One more misstatement of Mr. Heney I desire to correct.

"Mr. Heney says the Governor does not seem to have cared to put any of his relatives in public office. This is absolutely untrue."

How They Love One Another

How these Progressives love one another. Roosevelt and Hiram Johnson are both candidates for the party nomination for President in 1916. Heney's opinion of Roosevelt is explained in the statement above quoted. By way of offset it may be recalled that about the period of this exchange of compliments Roosevelt was reported in the press as describing Heney as "the wild ass of the desert," and the name stuck.

A Strange Genius

The late Albert Johnson, the father of the young man who made the foregoing statement, was one of the most remarkable men I ever met. He was fighting for Progressivism at a time when, as George Creel says, "Hiram Johnson did not know whether it was a disease or a toothwash." Albert Johnson had the most astonishing command of language and as an extemporaneous speaker he was a wonder. His last public appearance was during the special session of the legislature called by Governor Pardee after the big fire in this city. That session was extraordinary in more ways than one. The occasion and the legislation required to meet the emergencies created by the San Francisco catastrophe were so unusual that the legislators were a good deal out of their depth and by consequence they freely availed themselves of outside counsel.

Dominated by Ruef

Now it is the fact that Abraham Ruef dominated that session and molded most of its special legislation designed to meet the emergency. Ruef's control in this relation was not due to his political power and command of votes but rather to native ability and forceful debating. Indeed Ruef may be said to have touched the highest point in his political and social career on the night when he and Albert Johnson held a joint debate on an important pending measure in the presence of the two houses of the legislature. Notwithstanding Johnson's eloquence Ruef had all the best of the debate and he carried the legislature with him.

Waste of Public Money

It costs 20 per cent of the revenue from the automobile tax to make the collections. Jake Rauer would do the work for one per cent and do it better. The State payroll on the San Francisco harbor front now runs as high as $54,154 a month, as compared with $32,494 under Governor Gillett. The overhead expenses of the State Highway Commission are $46,449 a month, which must be paid before a stroke of work is done on the roads. Every bureau and department of State shows a substantial increase in cost under Johnson as compared with the rule under Gillett. The annual figures under Gillett were $3,306,190. Under Johnson the pay-roll has risen to $5,642,329. These figures are taken from the State Controller's records and they supply an eloquent commentary on the alleged saving about which Jack Neylan has been prating on the stump when he ought to be attending to his duties on the State Board of Control. Neylan is a flagrant example in boots of Hiram Johnson's practice of paying his political expenses out of the public treasury.

Virtually the whole Progressive campaign has been financed by the State treasury. Hiram Johnson has been nearly ten months on the stump and he makes affidavit that his primary campaign only cost him $434. It would be something to the purpose should he explain how much it has cost the taxpayers of California.

The Printing House Episode

It is pertinent at this time to recall the illuminating episode that culminated last year in the resignation of Foreman Frank J. Smith of the state printing house. It is pertinent because it throws a bright light on the civil service reform pretensions of the State administration and the "efficiency" bunk which the Civil Service Commission peddles so industriously. As every man in the printing trade knows, Smith is a thoroughly competent artisan and executive. In fact he has been foreman of a San Francisco newspaper composing room since he quit his job at Sacramento. Now Smith made himself unpopular in the State printing house because he insisted on good service. But he soon found to his disgust that the office was run by the employees. Placed in a position of responsibility without power he resigned his job by letter addressed to State Printer Richardson, in which he wrote:

Resigns His Job

Dear Sir: I herewith tender my resignation, to take effect immediately, or at your convenience. The prime reason for this course is to gratify the arbitrary demands of certain dissatisfied workmen, who are displeased with the efficiency system which prevails at the State Printing Office. This is but a natural sequence. These men band themselves together to make a job last. An executive organizes to get the work done. Let him quit trying to turn the work out and no room for conflict or contention remains.

There is a vast distinction between employment in a State institution and a private printing plant. In a State position there is constant pressure for luxury and a demand for increase of salary is always on the tapis. Fifty cents to $1 more per day than the prevailing wage rate is usually demanded and nearly always paid.

The man who would be popular at the head of a State institution must be inefficient. That is the first requisite. He must not know what is going on and should never be so indiscreet as to aim to get the work done. He should have no office rules, no system, no discipline.

In State employment an executive must take his choice between "dissatisfied customers" and "contented workmen" or between "satisfied customers" and "discontented workmen." Either horn of the dilemma is hell for the head. The public, popular thing to do is to pay the institution tax and choose the lesser evil and disappoint the customer, since by this method you "take care" of more craftsmen and thus win the approbation of delegations, whose approval you must have, else vague mutterings and intimidating threats will crack about your ears like a bull-whip.

Now seems to be the accepted time to "shake down" the administration and destroy the discipline and efficiency of the State Printing Office. "Pressure" is now being used in this direction.

My future depends upon my efficiency, just the same as any professional man's success depends upon his skill. If I am to be hampered in my work by "influences" that would have no legitimate standing in the commercial world, but which resolves into big job-cobolins in the State service, I think I had best return to private life.

With all good wishes, sincerely,

F. J. SMITH

How the Shop Was Run

Smith complained that the shop was virtually run by committees of the employees, who went over his head with complaints to the State Printer. He called these committees into conference and sought to get from them a formal statement of their grievances. But the delegates were too foxy to put anything in writing and the best Smith was able to get from them was some vague talk and complaints like these:

Because he did not say "good-morning" when he could avoid it.

Because he sat on tables at times while talking to girl employees.

Because he wore loud socks.

Because he was a slave-driver, and believed in working his subordinates in an "inhuman" manner.

Because he failed to call a conference when he first accepted the position as general foreman and ask for suggestions as to how to operate the printing plant.

No Glorious Socks

Smith denies the socks. Whether his table manners would befit the caste of Vere de Vere deponent knoweth not. But I submit that his letter to the State Printer shows how the business of the State is carried on with the prime object in view of building a political machine. At the same time Hiram Johnson is stumping the State making loud boasts of the way in which he has instituted measures of civil service reform.

Johnson's Kept Commission

Those measures consist of the appointment of a salaried commission with orders to keep hands off the State printing house, the San Francisco waterfront and all the other State departments which Johnson uses to build his political machine. The most important function of the State Civil Service Commission is to draw salaries.

Betting Odds Favor Knowland

The San Francisco Referee and Announcer in its yesterday's issue makes the following comment on the candidacy of Hon. Joseph R. Knowland, candidate for United States Senator:

How the political winds do blow. Knowland is now a 10 to 6 favorite over Phelan and Heney, with every indication that the popular candidate for the U. S. Senate will be a 3 to 1 choice before the date of election arrives. In Los Angeles and Alameda counties Knowland is already a 10 to 1 choice over his opponents.

Nor are the betting odds cited above given as a belated boom to Knowland's candidacy. From the day he announced his presence in the race for the U. S. Senatorship, confidence has increased in Knowland, until today he is recognized as the man best fitted to represent California in Washington. The primaries showed Knowland's strength all over the state, and virtually presaged the result in November.

California needs Knowland in Washington, and is going to send him there. The time-worn and stereotyped slogan of "his record and platform" is not resorted to in order to win Knowland votes. It is not necessary for Knowland to refer to his record, because it is too well known to every man and woman in the state.

We cite betting odds here merely to show that where men are willing to gamble on a candidate's chances there is no surer indication of his popularity. They are not hysterical cries of supporters, but the crystallized confidence of men who have studied the field from a cold-blooded, non-partisan standpoint, and who are willing that Knowland should carry their dollars. Add to this indication the natural support that has gone out to Knowland and you have the answer.

Growsome But Confused

It is a growsome subject but timely—this queer controversy over the removal of bodies from the cemeteries in this city, on which our people vote next Tuesday. The arguments on either side present an entertaining example of the curiosities of bookkeeping which may be defined as an art by which the expert can make the figures tell any story he pleases. In this controversy, however, the situation is confused by the fact that we are confronted by two sets of experts who arrive at directly opposite results from the same data. The proponents of removal insist that the opening to settlement of these 163 acres in the heart of the city would add $500,000 a year to the municipal income from taxation. On the other hand the opponents of the plan present these figures:

Lowest price quoted per body	$ 5.50
Lowest price grave	15.00
Lowest cost per body	$23.50
This does not include the cost of removal of headstones and monuments.
150,000 bodies @ $23.50 each	$3,525,000
Cost of moving headstones and monuments (estimated)	2,000,000
Total cost if done by individuals	$5,525,000
If done wholesale by the City (probably more).
VALUE OF LAND WILL NOT PAY FOR REMOVALS.
Estimated value of land	$7,000,000
Deduct 50% for land used for streets and cost of street work	3,500,000
Net value	$3,500,000

RESULTS.

Cost if done by individuals $5,525,000 |

Net value of land 3,500,000 |

Deficit if done by individuals $2,025,000 |

Deficit if done by City (probably more).  |

Total assessed valuation of San Francisco property $541,000,000 |

on which taxes are levied  |

A deficit of two millions means 40 cents on the 100 dollars added to the tax rate.  |

The Resources of Bookkeeping

These figures may be right or wrong—I cannot say—but I am sure the other fellow, if he had time, could produce an equally convincing demonstration to prove his case.

The opponents of the measure having effected their statistical triumph reinforce it with appeals to sentiment for the illustrious dead and growing utilitarian they point out that if left alone the land in these disused cemeteries will ultimately revert to the State and could be converted into another public park. These strictly practical people add that when trees are planted in the park the roots will eat up the few remaining bones of the illustrious dead automatically as it were and without cost to the taxpayers. How dost thou like the picture, Marianne?

Imperial Caesar dead and turned to clay
May stop a bung to keep the wind away.

Taking a Leap in the Dark

Citizens of Alameda County are doubtless fortunate because this bewildering controversy over our honored bones is not added to the welter of perplexities poked under their noses in the State pamphlet of 112 pages in small print setting forth vague, undigested wads of crabbed argument pro and con designed to neutralize each other and create a public state of mind like that of an ass between two bundles of hay. These are the pleasures of direct legislation which may appeal to the gamblers' instinct for taking a chance. It is a condition that I have endeavored to exemplify and illustrate by the perplexity induced by reading the official wrangle over the disposition of the cemeteries in this city. If after reading the conflicting arguments in that matter you are still in doubt, why then you might ask an undertaker.

Hiram and Herrin at Peace

It is a noticeable fact that during the last days of the campaign Hiram Johnson is not saying as much about having "kicked the Southern Pacific out of politics," as formerly. Coincident with this circumstance, it is noted that George A. Knight, attorney for a steamship company allied with the Southern Pacific, has declared for Johnson. Peter F. Dunne, an attorney for the Southern Pacific, has declared for Johnson. W. F. Herrin is reported as having declared for Eschleman, and to favor Johnson.

Four years ago Hiram was denouncing these men as the most "reactionary of reactionaries." He laid the lash of criticism upon them with no unsparring hand. He went up and down the State insisting that these men and all they represent should be kicked out of the political life and he proposed to do the kicking.

Senator Curtin, while in San Francisco recently, commenting on this rally of Southern Pacific "higher-ups" to the Johnson cause, remarked that if these men were behind his (Curtin's) candidacy Hiram Johnson would brand him as a tool of corporations wherever he spoke.

It is related that Eschleman is the real power behind the throne in effecting the alliances with Knight and Dunne. Just what overtures were made, are of course, not disclosed, but the suddenness with which Knight and Dunne espoused the cause of a candidate who four years ago denounced both as political tricksters of the lowest sort and branded them, as enemies of good government and two years later disfranchised them, is something remarkable to observe.

THE KNAVE.

Make the Victory Emphatic.

Tuesday the people of California will have their day. The candidates and the newspapers have practically completed their arguments and the case now goes to the jury of the electorate.

By the immense registration for this election the people of California have decided that this state shall be returned to the Republican column; that it shall be freed from government by nondescript politicians who stand for nothing but their personal advancement; that it shall be redeemed from government by extravagance; that its laws shall be of a character calculated to encourage capital instead of causing it to remain outside while the resources of the commonwealth suffer for lack of development.

The chief opponent of Republicanism, who four years ago was nominated and elected by Republican votes, and who has since done little else save to draw salary and stab that party in the back, has just completed a campaign in which he has claimed success at every point. But for him there is no success. The sovereign people of this state want no more of him and intend by an overwhelming majority to relegate him to that obscurity to which his political conduct and actions entitle him. The Republicans of California outnumber the combined strength of the Democrats and the Progressives by almost 20,000. The Republican registration is 140,000 more than the Progressives, the non-partisans and the scattering registration.

From what source will this Caesar of non-partisanship, this advocate of a political aggregation that was born of the disappointed ambitions of one man and has so miserably perished in other states, draw his strength? It is inconceivable that the more than a half million Republican men and women enrolled themselves under the banner of their party with intent to desert it on the firing line. We know that the 63,300 Socialists who have declared their intentions to vote their party ticket will remain true to their organization, for the Socialist is uncompromising in his politics. The same may be said of the 37,100 Prohibitionists. The Democratic party in California is practically a unit and whatever disaffection may exist within its ranks will be on behalf of Fredericks.

It is not fair to presume that more than a majority of the non-partisan and scattering vote will go to Johnson. Then where is his vaunted strength and his 50,000 plurality north of Tehachapi, and the Good Lord only knows how many he claims south of it?

It does not exist. The claim is founded on nothing but vain boasting and no intelligent Californian should be deceived. California is going Republican by an overwhelming plurality. Captain John D. Fredericks and a legislature that will aid him in bringing about needed reforms will be elected.

As to the Senatorship, there is no doubt whatever except in the size of the plurality that will be given to Hon. Joseph R. Knowland. The opposition to his candidacy is divided. Phelan will doubtless be second in the race, but distanced. Heney will be found in the back stretch. No ass ever stood any chance in a competition with a thoroughbred.

Wherever he has been in this campaign, Joseph R. Knowland has been greeted by citizens of all parties as a man who has done more for California than any Congressman in the delegation. His record of seventeen years as a legislator is clean and without a stain. There is not one dishonorable act in his entire career. He is strong, virile, able, efficient and one of the commanding figures in Congress. When Theodore Roosevelt was President he said of Mr. Knowland:

I wish the people of this country would send more Knowlands to the legislative halls of this nation.

When William Howard Taft was President he endorsed Joseph R. Knowland in the following statement:

I have found Mr. Knowland to be a constructive statesman. The people of California are to be congratulated upon having such an earnest, faithful representative.

In the face of such endorsements and the fact that the people of California are determined to send Joseph R. Knowland to the Senate as a part of the plan to make the Congress of the country Republican again and to restore the protective tariff policy, who will doubt the result?

There is a strong determination on the part of California to make the delegation to the lower house Republican. Active men are making the race in every district and prospects are glorious. That delegation will be Republican.

But one duty remains. That is to poll the full strength of the party, to see that every man and every woman casts a ballot, to the end that the result shall be overwhelming and emphatic.

Up Guards and at 'em.

Stratton's Success Assured.

Splendid reports of the successes achieved by Frederick S. Stratton, candidate for Associate Justice of the First District Court of Appeals, are being received by his friends in the bay cities. All over the district he is being supported by organizations representing people in all walks of life and there is a unanimity of sentiment that assures his election. The only question being discussed is the size of his majority.

Because of the splendid qualifications of the man; because he is a resident of Alameda county; because his election would be an honor to his thousands of friends in his home section and a credit to the good judgment of the electorate, he should receive practically every vote in this county to the end that his majority may be so emphatic and overwhelming as to constitute one of the greatest expressions of confidence ever given a good man.

Alameda county will not be true to itself if Frederick S. Stratton is not given a mighty majority.

After listening to the wild ass of the desert we feel once more to lift up our voices in praise of the colonel for his signal ability in bestowing titles.

Frederick S. Stratton

Candidate for Justice of the Appellate Court
Short Term

Carried entire district and Alameda county by large pluralities at primary election, stands No. 1.

An Alameda county man, born in Oakland and residing here all his life.

THE TRIBUNE has from time to time editorially set forth the superior claims and qualifications of Mr. Stratton for Justice of the Appellate Court. This journal would now add the above as its final word on behalf of the man from our own county, and urge with all the vigor at its command the assured election of Mr. Stratton.

Qualifications—The late Chief Justice William H. Beatty, knowing equally well both of the aspirants, made, just before his death, a solemn oath in writing, now on file with the Secretary of State, declaring that Mr. Stratton is my choice and that I will support no other candidate for this office.

Vote Down Prohibition Amendment.

The campaign for and against a "dry" State practically ended. The arguments pro and con have practically all been presented. It is probable that exaggerations have been indulged in by both sides; THE TRIBUNE knows that the advocates of the proposition have offered many statements not supported either by reason or fact.

This paper has taken a stand for the defeat of the "dry" plan because it believes that is right. While THE TRIBUNE has fought the saloon consistently, and will continue to fight places where old and young are debauched through the excessive use of strong alcoholic drinks, it cannot stand for a proposition that means the destruction of a great industry, such as the winemaking interest of California, and the stoppage of the manufacture of beverages that make for temperance instead of against it. THE TRIBUNE does not believe it is immoral to drink. Great men and great moralists, great advocates of religion and uplift have drunk, are now drinking and will continue to drink in moderation, without harm to themselves or anyone else as long as this old world of ours swings through space.

THE TRIBUNE has made its arguments against the "dry" plan largely on the economic issue. It has refrained from discussing, except in a general way, certain propositions that might have been discussed with good effect. It has refrained from turning on the advocates of the "dry" plan its own weapons, for the reason that it did not care to injure the sensibilities of well meaning, although mistaken, men and women.

IT PROPOSES TO CLOSE ITS FIGHT BY A REPETITION OF THE ECONOMIC PHASE, AND TO REITERATE ONCE MORE THAT IF THIS AMENDMENT PASSES IT WILL CREATE A FINANCIAL PANIC IN CALIFORNIA, THROW THOUSANDS OF MEN OUT OF WORK AND BRING MISERY AND GRIEF TO THE HOMES OF THOSE SAME THOUSANDS WHO WILL BE ROBBED OF THEIR PROPERTY AND DEPRIVED OF THEIR LIVING.

Let us sum up conditions once more. There are $150,000,000 invested in the grape industry in California, about 160,000 acres being devoted to the growing of winemaking varieties. All wine grapes are used at wineries and sixty per cent of table grapes and a large percentage of raisin grapes have to be sold to wineries. There are 15,000 persons in California who own vineyards. The average family is composed of five persons. Eradicate winemaking and 150,000 persons engaged in viticulture will be out of work, seven hundred wineries will be closed, $150,000,000 in property confiscated.

There are seventy-five breweries in California valued at $50,000,000. They pay $6,000,000 in wages annually to 4000 employees. That means a livelihood for 20,000 persons. They pay the farmers and hop growers of this State for barley, hops and rice each year $3,500,000. Pass this amendment and the $50,000,000 in property is confiscated, the 4000 men are added to the army of the unemployed, the revenue paid to the farmers ceases.

Dependent upon these industries are many others. There is the bottler, the cooper, the printer, the man who drives the delivery wagons, the men engaged in the wholesale houses, all out of work. Where will they go to find employment? At digging up the vines of the wine growers who will not be able to pay them for it?

What industry is there in California that can absorb 25,000 men at this time, or any other? Not one.

This amendment, if passed means more misery and more distress for California than any other action that could be taken. It strikes at industry and is an attack on thrift. It invades the sanctity of the home and proposes to destroy the laws of hospitality. It is impractical, unreasonable, unjustifiable and should be defeated and THE TRIBUNE believes it will be defeated by a majority of 200,000. Vote "No" on Proposition No. 2.

Lest we forget. Amendment No. 19, "The Oakland amendment" for city and county consolidation, has been endorsed by the leading cities of the State, speaking through their commercial organizations. It should pass. Amendment 21 was the original San Francisco-Los Angeles plan, but this has been abandoned. Proposition 19 on the ballot should pass and proposition 21 should be defeated.

Twenty Years Ago Today

The citizens of the now historic precinct of Altamont, a name that was made memorable in the halls of Congress on account of the contest between English and Hilborn, turned out en masse and gave ex-Congressman Hilborn a grand ovation. A procession was formed with nearly one hundred torches in line and headed by the Livermore cornet band, escorted the distinguished guest to the hall. County Committeeman Bernal introduced N. A. Nickerson as chairman who at once introduced Mr. Hilborn. At the conclusion of Mr. Hilborn's warmly received speech, Deputy District Attorney Lincoln S. Church delivered an able address. Other speakers were F. R. Fassett, candidate for Assembly, Judge J. H. Taylor and W. H. Calloway of Livermore. Miss Etta Mae Wilson of this city will make her debut as a dramatic reader in the First Congregational Church tonight. The prohibition rally at Mills Tavern tomorrow night promises to be well attended. Henry French, the prohibition candidate for Governor, will be given a reception and will make the speech of the evening.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS

Love doesn't thrive on absent treatment. The money of a miser never acquires the true habit. Words are merely the blossoms, but deeds are the fruits. The laborer a man is the more hope he can generate. A man is seldom worth as much or as little as people think he is. There are times when every man is a deep-dyed villain in his thoughts. Our idea of a smart young man is one who succeeds in taming his wild oats. Nothing jolts a liar more than to have another chap beat him at his own game. It takes a woman to jolly a man into a condition that will enable her to work him. After a young man rings a girl's doorbell about so often it's up to him to ring her finger. Many a married man would starve to death if his wife didn't know how to manipulate a can opener. When a woman gets old enough to forget that she has a complexion she begins to worry about her rights. Kindness and politeness would be appreciated more if they were not used so often as gold brick substitutes. When the oldest daughter marries, the rest of the family manage to get along comfortably without any possible ten it costs the man who is elected to office a lot of money to convince his opponent that he is the people's choice. When a man is a miser making a free, even a wild man's children it's a sign that a woman soon acquire the right to correct them it won't be her fault.

INTERESTING FACTS

Street letter boxes have been invented in which a man can be opened and a postman's bag is attached behind him to catch all of their contents. For sprinkling clothing before ironing there has been invented a cup with a perforated bottom, the water being released by pressing a lever on the handle. A German automobile that is driven over ice by an air propeller has carried six passengers at a speed of forty miles an hour and one person at a ninety-mile rate. Street metal bullheads, which can be quickly erected, have been provided by several Pittsburgh stores to protect them from floods when the city's rivers rise.

Vote "Yes" on Proposition No. 19.

The San Francisco Chronicle in its issue of yesterday is unfair to the cities of Alameda county, to Los Angeles, to San Francisco and other municipalities in the presentation of the various propositions on the ballot, especially with respect to No. 19, better known as "The Oakland Amendment."

The terms of this proposition are so well known as to require no further extended discussion. In brief it is a substitute for the San Francisco plan of consolidating cities under which that municipality proposed to cross the bay and annex territory. Oakland fought the proposition two years ago and the State supported Oakland, the amendment being overwhelmingly defeated. When the suggestion was renewed this year and another amendment formulated, Oakland again announced its intention of fighting it to the bitter end. A compromise was effected by representatives of the commercial bodies of Oakland, Los Angeles and San Francisco at which it was agreed that the Oakland amendment should stand and be supported, while the San Francisco amendment should be defeated. The Oakland amendment permits the expansion of San Francisco down the peninsula.

Immediately following the compromise agreement, the commercial bodies alluded to advised the citizens of their respective localities to vote for No. 19 and to vote against No. 21. The San Francisco Chamber of Commerce was included in these. It issued a circular letter containing this advice.

In the Chronicle of yesterday the several propositions on the ballot are presented under the heading: "Propositions and Amendments to be voted on November Third, With Recommendations of the Chamber of Commerce and of the Chronicle." Then follows this significant paragraph:

The Chamber of Commerce of the city referred all these propositions to a committee of fourteen well qualified members. We print herewith the recommendations of this committee, except in respect to eight propositions as to which the Chronicle disagrees with the committee.

But the Chronicle does not identify these eight propositions and turning to No. 19 we find it advising its clientele to vote "No." On proposition No. 21, it advises them to vote "Yes" thus reversing the agreements made by the commercial bodies of the three large cities alluded to. THE TRIBUNE submits that this is an unfair method of presenting the matter to the voters for their consideration.

All electors should vote "Yes" on Proposition No. 19 and "No" on Proposition No. 21.

Frick Has Made Good; Keep Him.

It was Lincoln who said that it was bad policy to swap horses while crossing a stream, a homely adage, but at the same time a forcible one. It applies to many conditions, especially so in the matter of the County Superintendent of Alameda County's Schools. George W. Frick, the incumbent, has a record of achievement. Under his guidance the schools have improved, the course of instruction has been made more practical and less theoretical and the pupils are being taught utility as well as book knowledge. Manual training and Domestic Science have been brought to a state of usefulness and the boys and girls are learning something that will be of material assistance in the battle of life. These branches are to be still further improved and made more and more general, as time passes.

What reasons are there for making a change in this office? None worth mentioning. On the one hand we have the record of the work of Mr. Frick, on the other a daintily painted little rainbow of promise. Promise is all right in a way, but good deeds discount every time.

George W. Frick is a trained educator, a competent, practical man, intensely human, and with a knowledge of that which the child needs to fit him for the coming years. He has made good in this office; why make a change for light and transient causes? It is practical results, not promises that will make for the betterment of Alameda's county schools. Re-elect George W. Frick.

Cribbins Is Gaining Ground.

Because of his advocacy of business legislation to substitute freak laws and his arguments in favor of better industrial conditions, W. W. Cribbins, Republican candidate for the Thirty-sixth district, is gaining ground in his candidacy daily and the prospects are that he will be triumphantly elected. Cribbins is speaking almost every night at from one to three meetings and his addresses are in marked contrast with those of his Progressive opponent, who has been spending much time in defending the "greasy rag" bill, which forbids a man from using an old shirt for the purpose of polishing the piano without first sterilizing it and other oddities in legislation enacted since Johnson assumed control. Cribbins argues for legislation that will aid capital in developing the resources of California instead of retarding them, and his constituents are rallying to his support in such numbers as to insure his election.

Short Sermons for Busy Readers

'A YOUNG MAN'S JESUS'

A few months ago there appeared a little volume by Bruce Barton, entitled "A Young Man's Jesus." It is an interesting book—chiefly because it shows how widely the young men of our day are coming to interpret for themselves the life and teaching of Jesus. It is a very hopeful sign of the times—this interest of modern men in the Gospel. It is not confined to men in churches or found alone in colleges, and universities. It is found amongst all classes—and each group seems to discover in Jesus' life and ministry some word which is prophetic of its own cause. Is it not heartening in the midst of so much that is "out of gear," when we are oppressed by the tragedies of industrial and international war—to see this sincere and earnest movement on the part of young men in the direction of the idealism of Jesus' Gospel? It is as we are told by certain thoughtful men, are upon the threshold of a great forward movement in the development of personal and social ideals, it will be because the efficient young men and women of this generation have become imbued with the spirit of Jesus Christ. That this is true is not hard to see.

PERSONAL RELATIONSHIP.

Acceptance of Jesus is a very personal thing. What is finer than the personal relationship which exists between such men as Raymond Robins, Sherwood Eddy and unnumbered young men who are vigorous and efficient, and Jesus Christ? It isn't poetry—it is practical everyday experience. It is real comradeship. And there is no other dynamic force comparable to it. Who has not seen some careless young chap completely made over by a real experience of this sort? A man cannot go on his way as he has been going. Discipleship means personal loyalty today just as much as it did when Peter and his brother left the fishing smacks and followed Him, and just as much as it did on the day when the wealthy young man lost his chance because he would not take the course of self-sacrifice. What if young men today are ready to give themselves without reserve to this personal friendship? It will mean the beginning of a new age.

ACCEPTANCE OF PROGRAM.

Acceptance of Jesus means acceptance of his program. We are beginning to understand that Jesus' Gospel is a social gospel. It can solve all of our social problems today. If young men will take Jesus at his word and then go out into business, into shop, into politics, with a burning eagerness to try the Sermon on the Mount, we shall be astonished at the simplicity of the task. And it is a glorious promise of the future that today we have some men of high ideals and Christian faith in responsible places, and that year by year we have a larger number of "men with vision" from whom to choose at the polls. The almost universal condemnation of war and the constructive plans for ultimate disarmament, the increasing agencies for social welfare, and the fact that freely equipped schools of philanthropy are teaching young men how to cope with the ills of our social order, the work of a civic conscience which demands a clean city, the crusade against vice and whiskey—how many indications there are that the men and women of today are coming to see in the program of Jesus the guide post toward progress, and the way out from darkness into light.

There is a Young Man's Jesus. Would that every young man might come to know him and be his disciple!

Heroes From Oakland and Berkeley Awarded Medals

WIN CARNEGIE ORDER FOR HEROISM

Local Life Savers Awarded Decorations for Brave Rescue of Two Lives.

In West Oakland there is a young man who has won a medal from the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission for saving the life of a child. This is Philip L. Stickle, 1850 Seventh street, who is the only Oakland person on the list. He saved a 1-year-old child from being run over by an electric train at 12th and Broadway streets on November 24, 1912.

Berkeley is another Alameda county city on the list, with Guy W. McElroy, 11 Alston way, the recipient of a bronze medal for saving Carrie A. Brune from drowning in San Francisco bay July 27, 1912.

Patrick Lynch of San Francisco, who died September 15, 1912, in an attempt to save James P. Conlon from suffocation during a fire, is on the roll of honor. While his widow and two children, living at 429 Guerrero street, have been given a pension. Nicholas H. Lawlor, 124 Clippier street, San Francisco, is awarded a silver medal for his fruitless attempt to save Lynch.

Ohio has a fine record as a mother of heroes, as well as President. In the list of heroes are recognized 12 to the credit of Ohio men and boys. This is more than twice as many as appear for any other state. Michigan having 9, and the others scattered among 19 states.

March 25 and 26, 1912, were the great hero-making days, 21 of the heroic acts in the list given out today having been recalled from those days of flood along the Ohio and its tributaries.

THIRTEEN LOST LIVES.

In all, 13 silver medals and 34 bronze medals are awarded. Thirteen of the heroes lost their lives, and to the dependents of 10 of these pensions or sums of money to be applied subject to the discretion of the commission. The amount in 50 cases sums aggregating over $50,000 are appropriated for education, purchase of homes, or other worthy purposes that may be approved by the commission.

Accidents in the water called forth by far the largest number of heroic acts—51 in all; and students figure most prominently in the rescue work, but the occupations given in the lists show there are heroes in every walk of life, from clergymen to hermits.

There are heroes: Margaret Guy, aged 16, of South Boston, Mass., who saved a lad three years her senior from drowning; Mary Allen of Big Rapids, Mich., who rescued two girls from drowning in Ross lake, Leroy, Mich.; Sophia Thomas of Newry, S. C., who rescued a child from a rabid dog; Phoebe Briggs, a Vassar College girl, who saved three college mates from drowning; Mrs. Lillian M. Coburn, who saved two men from drowning at Sausalito, Cal.; Frances Spanke, a 14-year-old girl of Hartman, Ark., who lost her own life in saving another girl from being killed by a train. With today's award, there is a total of close to a thousand "heroes of peace" who have been awarded Carnegie medals since the fund was established, 10 years ago.

Today's awards follow:

No More Desire For Tobacco

Arthur Krouse is a locomotive fireman who had been using tobacco since he was a boy. About two years ago he began to have spells of nervousness, memory was getting very bad and his eyes bothered him a good deal. He had tried in vain to conquer the habit until he got a certain book and now he is freed from the thrall of tobacco and his health is wonderfully improved. Anyone who desires to read the book can obtain it absolutely free by writing to Edward J. Woods, 435 W. Station E. New York City. It tells how the habit of smoking, chewing or snuff-taking can be easily conquered.

DON'T SAY "I Can't Afford to Have My Teeth Fixed Now!"

I realize that things are not what they should be, and that money is hard to get a hold of. But perhaps it is all for the best. It makes all of us who have to work for a living realize the value of money.

Remember a dollar saved is a dollar earned.

Remember also that Teeth sometimes are even more valuable than money. Health is the first step toward happiness. Therefore, you must keep your Teeth. Now is the time, this is the place for fine dental work.

Don't hesitate to come here because I advertise. Anyone who has a good thing to offer ought to let the people know. Your department store does it; your bank advertisers; and the dentist who has the knowledge and the facilities for serving you for less money surely ought to tell you.

HUPMOBILE MAKES ELECTRIC SYSTEMS A STRENUOUS TRIP SUPPLANT MAGNETO

Goes Mud Plugging on Steep Mountain Grades in Oregon.

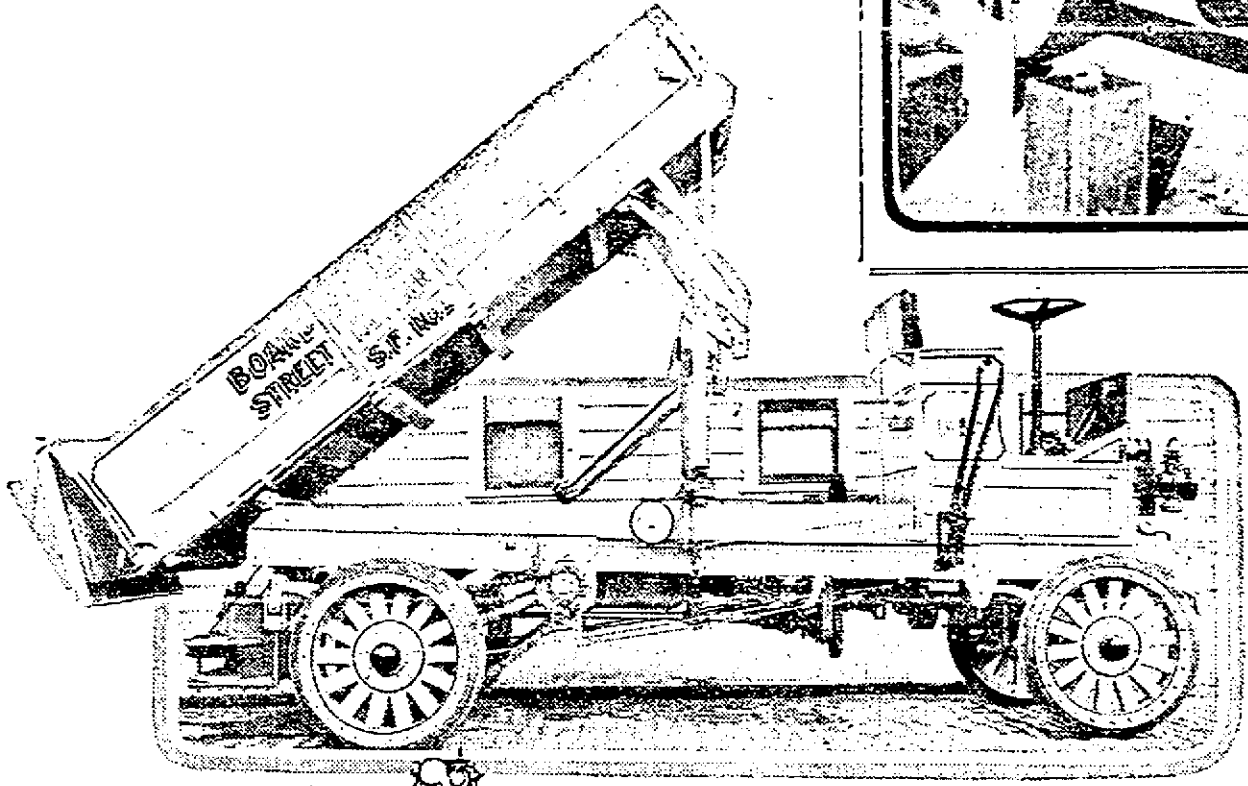

A recent tour which was made by W. S. Dulmage of the Hupmobile Auto Company, Portland, Ore., shows what a motor can do under adverse road conditions, and traveling through rough, mountainous country. The tour consisted of a run from Portland to Klamath Falls by way of Green Springs mountains and return to Portland, and from the report of the party who ran the Hupmobile the trip must have been one in which every quality that goes into the make-up of a car was tested.

The roads from Portland to Cottage Grove were of firm macadam, but upon reaching the "Pine Creek" canyon, N. E. Brandt, assistant Pacific Coast sales

Announcements by various automobile manufacturers disclose the fact that in virtually all models priced at $500 or over electrical devices for lighting, starting and ignition are now listed as standard equipment.

In most cases these devices are built into the chassis of the car and are integral parts of it. With but one or two exceptions, all large producers have used the principle of a modern electrical system to do away with the magneto as a piece of needless duplication and complexity.

Exceptions to this rule are almost solely manufacturers listing cars at two prices, one with and without complete electrical systems. Manufacturing efficiency manager of the Hup Mobile Car Company, who was accompanying Dulmage as far as Medford, suggested that it would be an opportune time to put chains on all the wheels. After this had been done they encountered some rough going, there being only one track along the canyon side.

In a great many places where road work had been going on the wheels were almost out of sight, the mud being up as far as the radiator. To add to this difficulty the rain poured down steadily. The roads were bad all the way through to Oakland. From there on to Canyon City, due to the good roads enthusiasts, driving was good. Upon leaving Canyon City they began the climb up Cow Creek canyon, where many automobiles found the going next to impossible. After leaving the summit the roads into Glendale and from there on were in splendid condition, and Medford was reached in good time without any mishaps of any kind and no adjustments had been necessary.

The road from Medford to Klamath Falls, through the Cascade Mountains, was by the way of Green Springs Mountain, and an elevation of more than 5000 feet was attained over a rocky and treacherous road. From here on the road led through dense forests containing the finest timber in the country, and after a wonderful scenic drive the party arrived in Medford.

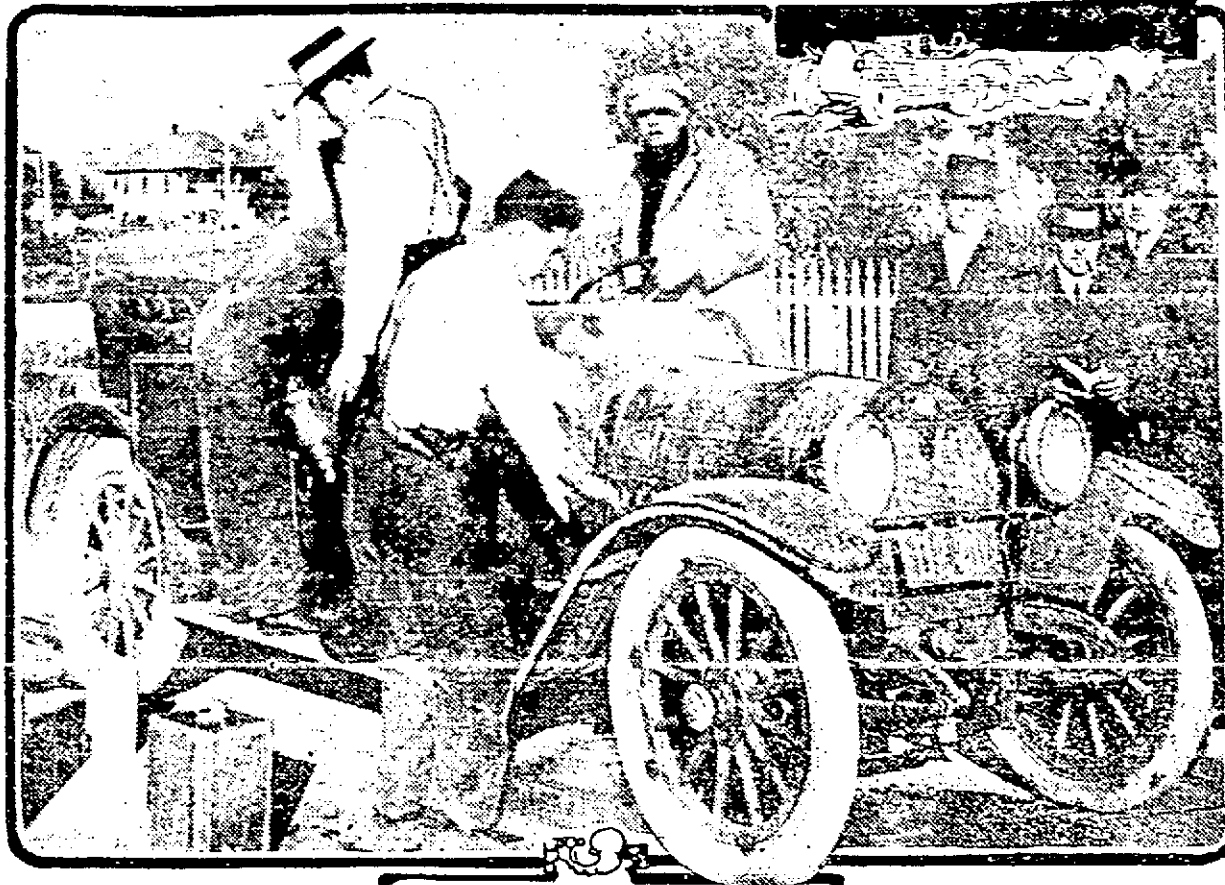

After leaving Medford on the return trip the highways to Grants Pass were excellent, but from there the road conditions, owing to heavy and persistent rains, were about as bad as could well be imagined. Owing to their condition the chains were frequently needed, especially on some of the grades, and at one point it was necessary to put twigs and branches of trees under the car's wheels, so as to get traction.

At no time, however, was there any motor or other trouble experienced with the little Hupmobile, as she sailed right along as if mountain climbing was her greatest delight.

The remainder of the journey back to Portland was easy going. During the entire trip from Portland to Klamath Falls and return the Hupmobile earned a perfect score for itself and seemed to be working even better after its 1500 miles over Oregon roads.

"The above remarkable run," said C. L. Hebrand of the Osen & Hunter Auto Co., agent for the Hupmobile Company,

TOUR HAWAII AWHEEL

One of the most interesting long distance motorcycle trips taken this summer was that of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest L. Freese of Los Angeles. With motorcycle and side car safety tucked away in the hold of the big steamer, they sailed for Honolulu. When the pair landed at the Hawaiian capital, they immediately unpacked the two-wheeler and started out to explore the islands. For weeks they roamed about, studying the quaint customs of the people, climbing hills, visiting old volcanoes and other points of interest—many of them places that could not be reached by any other means than a motorcycle. Both Mr. and Mrs. Freese declare that this is one of the best vacations they have ever had and that the Harley-Davidson motorcycle added much to the pleasure of the trip.

PRESIDENT WILSON HAS A FORD TOURING CAR

Two distinguished Americans have recently joined the huge list of Ford owners, according to Veltch & Priestly, the Ford dealers. The first is President Woodrow Wilson, who has bought a Ford for runs in and about Washington, particularly for "emergency calls" to the golf course. The other is John D. Rockefeller, who is using his Ford to inspect his estate at "Forest Hill," Cleveland, and, like the President in one respect at least, to get to his golf game with the least possible delay.

Twenty-eight new motorcycles have been ordered for the police department of Los Angeles (Cal).

For weeks that has been the record. Motorists are paying, on the average, $930,000 weekly for this new-model HUDSON.

No other class car commands anywhere near such a sale. HUDSON output for September is five times a year ago. All because of the matchless attractions offered by this new-type Six.

Come and See Why

This HUDSON Six-40 stands today the most popular quality car in the world.

First, because Howard E. Coffin designed it as his finished ideal of a car. And Mr. Coffin has long been considered the leading American designer.

Second, because of its lightness. It is lighter than any other car that seats seven.

Third, because its new-type motor has reduced operative cost about 30 per cent.

Fourth, because of its beauty. It has scores of attractions which you never have seen in a car.

Fifth, because of its price. Never before has a high-grade car been sold for $1550 f. o. b. factory.

Come now and see it. In the fall, when the new-year models all come out, is the time to pick out your new car.

Car officially checked by the following:

Oakland—E. CRINNION, Tribune.
Sacramento—F. F. BRIGGS, Union.
Tallac—NORMAN E. DOAN.

This record made last Monday has been acclaimed by all the most remarkable run ever recorded in the west.

The car was a fully equipped stock touring car and carried four passengers.

There was not a stop for mechanical adjustments or tire changes.

This drive across the State and return, over the hazardous roads of the Sierra Nevada mountains was never before made in a day.

It proves beyond all question the strength and consistency of the 1915 Paige. On this run the car received more hard driving than the ordinary car receives in five years of service.

Future of Padded Glove Sport Given Into the Hands of Voters

BOXING TO HEAR

VOTERS' VERDICT IN CALIFORNIA

Sentiment Against Game Has Subsidized With Recent Improvement.

Within the next few days it will be known whether the boxing game, which has figured so strongly in the history of California, is doomed. With the passing of the professional boxing bill, the future of the sport is in the hands of the voters.

The objection to the boxing game has arisen rapidly. Several years ago regulations were made, and in 1915 the law was passed. Since then, the game has been played in the United States, and it has been said that more champions were made and more fights were held in any other part of the world.

The objection to the boxing game has arisen rapidly. Several years ago regulations were made, and in 1915 the law was passed. Since then, the game has been played in the United States, and it has been said that more champions were made and more fights were held in any other part of the world.

Just now the game appears to have a fair chance. The people of the state, and boxing promoters are exceedingly optimistic over the prospects of the defeat of the proposed amendment.

Since the regulations which have been made governing the length of the bouts, the promoters themselves have done a great deal to improve the quality of the game. The four-round bouts, which were a few years ago poorly managed affairs, in which the winner was often a matter of chance, have been improved to a great deal.

With the participants in the higher class ring contests, however, a knockout is nearly always the result of many hard blows, and the result is often a matter of chance. The promoters themselves have done a great deal to improve the quality of the game.

Against boxing in the local arena, the few number of knockouts. With these boxes of small ability, a knockout usually was the result of many hard blows, and the result is often a matter of chance. The promoters themselves have done a great deal to improve the quality of the game.

Right after the objection raised when Jack Johnson and Jim Jeffries were matched was brought up even stronger when the fight between the two black men was held. On top of that came the reports of some very disgusting affairs in which the Johnson, representing the black man's victory, was engaged.

The success of Johnson also has been the cause of a great many more members of his race to enter the ring. In turn the popular mind attributed to these the bad qualities of the champion himself.

These influences, along with a couple of unfortunate deaths resulting from boxing matches, have led to the matter of professional boxing contests to a vital issue with Californians, and it is very probable that these incidents, which were accidental rather than intentional, will have a great deal to do in determining how the people of this state will cast their votes regarding the amendment regarding boxing.

The probable reason for the subsiding of sentiment against boxing during the past six months is found in the fact that Johnson has been away from this country, and to the coming of the higher type of boxer. The lightweight division has been the chief attraction in gentlemen boxers. Such men as Freddie Welsh, the present champion, Willie Ritchie, Packey McFarland and others, belong to an entirely different class of men than those usually associated with outsiders with the boxing game. In them, the mind rather than brute strength is evidenced. They are on a par in character with the average young American. Their presence in the game is undoubtedly due to the fact that the present boxing game has been a higher class of men into the boxing profession.

As for the local contests are concerned, they are above reproach. In Oakland, and for that matter in San Francisco, the boxing game, and especially the 10 and 15-round bouts, have been conducted on a high scale. These higher class bouts also draw the better class of boxers and rowdism is not apparent at them.

When two games in succession, Saturday for Emeryville and Sunday for the Great Westerns, giving up twice hits in both games.

TENNIS

By Nelson G. Welburn

Admirers of tennis will enthusiastically wend their way to the fashionable Claremont Country Club today for the purpose of witnessing the inauguration of the men's doubles and the women's handicap singles events, and the probable termination of the men's and women's singles events of the fourteenth annual tournament for the lawn tennis championships of California, which has held tennisdom spellbound for the past two weeks.

As the third and fourth rounds of this tournament are being reached, the interest becomes more intensified, and today's play which will bring together John R. Strachan and William M. Johnson, present title holder, promises to supply tennis of a sensational and scientific order. It bids well to be the main event of today's play.

In a quick recapitulation of last week's play, we must confess we find very little to grow enthusiastic over, although some of the matches in which champions did not figure, proved to be unusually brilliant and entertaining.

Unquestionably and pugnaeously Johnnie Strachan, at the present time of writing appears to be playing unbeatable tennis. His performance in San Francisco Sunday last, in his match against Robert Lindley Murray, stamps him as a likely winner of the state singles title. (Unquestionably, his tennis is far better than that of any other player in the state. It is superior to that of Griffin, Johnson and Murray. Of course this is practically based on recent observations of the tennis as played by Griffin and Johnson. If this can be accepted as a reliable and accurate criterion, why then we feel that this game concerning Strachan is not a mere guess.)

Of the three players, Griffin is unquestionably the weakest. His narrow escape from defeat at the hands of Ralph Gorrell Sunday last, indicates clearly that he is far from being in championship form. Gorrell is a good, reliable and steady player, but not of state championship caliber. If Griffin, Johnson and Strachan are to play, the latter two will be the main event of today's play.

Strachan and Johnson fear him not. In the men's doubles match, they are teamed with Robert Lindley Murray and Charles Bates. The four-round bouts, which were a few years ago poorly managed affairs, in which the winner was often a matter of chance, have been improved to a great deal.

With the participants in the higher class ring contests, however, a knockout is nearly always the result of many hard blows, and the result is often a matter of chance. The promoters themselves have done a great deal to improve the quality of the game.

Against boxing in the local arena, the few number of knockouts. With these boxes of small ability, a knockout usually was the result of many hard blows, and the result is often a matter of chance. The promoters themselves have done a great deal to improve the quality of the game.

Right after the objection raised when Jack Johnson and Jim Jeffries were matched was brought up even stronger when the fight between the two black men was held. On top of that came the reports of some very disgusting affairs in which the Johnson, representing the black man's victory, was engaged.

The success of Johnson also has been the cause of a great many more members of his race to enter the ring. In turn the popular mind attributed to these the bad qualities of the champion himself.

These influences, along with a couple of unfortunate deaths resulting from boxing matches, have led to the matter of professional boxing contests to a vital issue with Californians, and it is very probable that these incidents, which were accidental rather than intentional, will have a great deal to do in determining how the people of this state will cast their votes regarding the amendment regarding boxing.

The probable reason for the subsiding of sentiment against boxing during the past six months is found in the fact that Johnson has been away from this country, and to the coming of the higher type of boxer. The lightweight division has been the chief attraction in gentlemen boxers. Such men as Freddie Welsh, the present champion, Willie Ritchie, Packey McFarland and others, belong to an entirely different class of men than those usually associated with outsiders with the boxing game. In them, the mind rather than brute strength is evidenced. They are on a par in character with the average young American. Their presence in the game is undoubtedly due to the fact that the present boxing game has been a higher class of men into the boxing profession.

As for the local contests are concerned, they are above reproach. In Oakland, and for that matter in San Francisco, the boxing game, and especially the 10 and 15-round bouts, have been conducted on a high scale. These higher class bouts also draw the better class of boxers and rowdism is not apparent at them.

When two games in succession, Saturday for Emeryville and Sunday for the Great Westerns, giving up twice hits in both games.

HERE'S STORY OF BOOB AND OF REAL WISE BIRD

Novel Yarn by Baseball Scribe Has Moral That Rings True.

When Boston looked over the dope by beating the Athletics four straight games, a lot of perfectly good sporting writers, who had picked the Athletics to win were given the sufferer by fellows who waited until the series was over before picking a winner. Bing W. Barker, who achieved fame with his "W. K. W. M. A." story, told me that he had written the following little tale about the "Boob and the Wise Bird" and it hits the point so hard and true that it is herewith reproduced.

Way back in the year 1914, there was a Boob. He knew absolutely nothing, so he wrote Baseball for a Living. Thousand Games of Baseball, but he just couldn't make head or tail of the game. When the Boston Braves came to his town, he was asked to write them the story. They looked rotten to him, which shows what a Boob he was. For the Boston Braves began playing Ball and kept on playing until they had won the pennant.

The Boob's Boss then said to him: "You are a pretentious fellow, the Wise Bird. You don't know anything about Baseball, but it looks to me as if you were a Wise and Brilliant one. So Subject as you know how in the world could you fall for such a Lemon as the Athletics?"

"I thought," answered the Boob, "that the 'Lemon' would be followed and the 'Wise Bird' would win."

"This was the story of the Boob and the Wise Bird, because he knew Baseball thoroughly, having come to the Park every holiday since he could remember and having on one occasion seen the Athletics win the pennant."

"Don't try to fool yourself with Junk like that. The Better Team might lose. One Game or Two Games or possibly Three Games, but not four straight. That's a joke, and when you fall that stuff you are merely displaying your ignorance."

The Wise Bird then left the scene and hunted up some of his friends so he could tell them the story and let them know that he was a Wise Bird.

"What do you think of that Boob?" he said. "He's been writing Baseball all these years and he doesn't know any more about the game than I do. Never saw a Game. The idea of his saying that the Better Team was beaten when it was Bumped Four Straight!"

"Here," he said, "are the Reports of the Cleveland Series of May, 1914. The Series began on May 13 and lasted until May 16 inclusive. The Cincinnati Correspondent may sometimes stray from the Gospel Truth, but he never lies about the Result of Ball Games."

The Wise Bird read the Reports and learned the following Details: That on May 13 Cincinnati defeated the Boston Braves, 1 to 0. James pitched for the Braves. The Boston Club accumulated Four Hits.

That on May 15 Cincinnati defeated the Boston Braves, 4 to 2. Crutcher and Strand pitched for the Braves. The Boston Club gathered Six Hits.

That on May 16 Cincinnati defeated the Boston Braves, 1 to 0. Rudolph pitched for the Braves. The Boston Club went Out and Corralled Three Hits.

That on May 17 Cincinnati defeated the Boston Braves, 6 to 0. Tyler pitched for the Braves. The Boston Club accumulated Four Hits.

Seek Motive for Mack's Action World's Series Stars Will Go

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 31.—Philadelphia fans, and in fact the fans of the whole country were astonished today by the news that Connie Mack has asked for waivers on three men who have been considered the mainstay of his team. Bender, Plank, and Coombs have also been used in World Series games, and the former two were still regarded as wonderful pitchers. Chief Bender's name was on the list of the nation's little over a year ago when he figured prominently in the series against the Giants. Plank is known as the greatest southpaw who ever tossed a ball. Coombs has also figured in World Series games, but owing to an unfortunate injury has not done much pitching lately.

Mack's announcement was in confirmation of a statement made by Hughie Jennings, manager of the Detroit team in Atlantic City, after a day's lay-off caused by an unusual accident.

FREDDIE WELSH, ORIGINAL HARD LUCK CHAMPION

Captures Fame Only to See Promised Fortune Fade in War Cloud.

The original "Hard Luck" is Freddie Welsh, of Portland, Wales. His life, his friends agree, has been one series of misfortunes, just one thing after another, and now the great European war prevents the little man from casting in on his recent great victory. He's disgusted and writes to a friend thus: "Just when it looked as though I would have more than £100,000 in European money, and that I was going to be a millionaire, and it is a real war—started. All plans up in the air."

It was a Los Angeles restaurant at midnight, December 31, 1914. As the big clock in the balcony struck 12, Freddie turned his watch over and laid it face down on the table, saying: "Good-bye to the enemy. This has been my worst year."

Another story Welsh remarked: "When they were handing out horse-shoes somebody made a mistake and gave me the left hand shoe of a sick mule. I have had my share of bad luck since then. Four-year-old colts and such like, but they all go on a strike when I get them. If it was raining rubies and diamonds I'd have to give up both hands."

As early as 1907 Fred had the promise of a championship battle, but Joe Gans suffered a slight illness and Welsh's plans were broken, not to be made again. Welsh's first Los Angeles appearance was in 1909 when Baron Louis, then at the height of his fame, was defeated by Welsh. Welsh's first Los Angeles appearance was in 1909 when Baron Louis, then at the height of his fame, was defeated by Welsh.

What would have been an easy bout with the long-haired Welsh, Welsh, hobnobbing about on one foot and suffering untold tortures, gave one of the most remarkable exhibitions ever seen in a Queensbury ring, and was rewarded with the decision.

In the same year an ignorant second robbed Welsh of his title. Welsh's last fight was with Jim Jeffries, who was defeated by Welsh. Welsh's last fight was with Jim Jeffries, who was defeated by Welsh.

Found of extra work were thus put on Welsh, whose forehead is one of his strongest assets. His feet were so heavy that he could scarcely dance about. Welsh fought desperately into the twenty-third round, when Jim Jeffries gave a draw decision.

Again during the same year Welsh was matched against Alvin Karpis, who was defeated by Welsh. Welsh's last fight was with Jim Jeffries, who was defeated by Welsh.

Minor misfortunes continued to follow Welsh. His last fight was with Jim Jeffries, who was defeated by Welsh. Welsh's last fight was with Jim Jeffries, who was defeated by Welsh.

On November 11, 1912, Fred was made happy when he won back his English championship. Welsh's last fight was with Jim Jeffries, who was defeated by Welsh.

An injury to his neck caused the calling of a fight with Karpis, who was defeated by Welsh. Welsh's last fight was with Jim Jeffries, who was defeated by Welsh.

Last came Welsh's recent triumph over Karpis, who was defeated by Welsh. Welsh's last fight was with Jim Jeffries, who was defeated by Welsh.

Within the month the war clouds smothered the new champion's plans.

Walter Johnson Will Jump for More Pay

FORT SMITH, Ark., Oct. 31.—Walter Johnson stated tonight that the Washington American League club had offered him $15,000 a year under a new contract, but that the St. Louis Federal had outbid Washington, and he would sign with the Fed unless his old club could outbid them.

Johnson said he had consulted this ultimatum to Clark Griffith.

"It's a COLLEGE COAT, Adrienne. See the stunning wide belt and these cute plaits at the back and front! And what nifty buttons, too! And, my dear, will you look at the price—just $12.95—and buyable on CREDIT! Well, I'm going to take this coat home with me this minute! I've arranged to pay for it BY THE WEEK and I'll do the same with this coat."

"Say, I ought to have one of these College Coats, too, Mabel. This nifty striped one would look fine with my Redingote Dress. Oh, yes, I bought that here at CHERRY'S, too."

"There are some awfully stylish checked patterns here, too, Mabel. Hurry! Let's tell them we'll get these ON CREDIT. Most of the girls know about CHERRY'S—on Thirteenth street, between Washington and Clay, the number is 515, while just across at 523 is their men's store. They have two stores in San Francisco, one at 1009 Market, the other at 2400 Mission."

PRICE OF CANARIES
SOARS; WAR CAUSE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—No canary family will result from the war.

This is the cheering news of local animal importers, who say the famous yellow warblers of the Harz and Androsberg mountains of Germany are being imported from Germany in increased rather than decreased numbers as a result of the big European conflict.

Prices for the cheery chirpers have gone up, however. A canary which formerly sold for a dollar and a half to a dollar seventy-five is now priced at three and four dollars.

Rarer birds from the Androsberg district, particularly, are still higher priced—around ten dollars each.

Bird seed and cuttle bone are also costing more, it is said, the seed being boosted in price from ten to eighteen cents a pound. An automobile border express service has been established between Berlin and Holland for transportation of the yellow songsters whose exportation is not barred by classification as "contraband of war."

PERMIT FISHING IN LAKE
SAN BERNARDINO, Oct. 31.—

Here's glad news for the mimrod. Fishing for bass in Erbita lake, which is fairly alive with the fish, will now be permitted.

Lou Somers, manager of Urbila, yesterday made the announcement.

Here are the rules. Fishing for bass will be allowed from boats next Saturday afternoon. All bass under seven inches must be thrown back, and fishermen will be allowed a catch of three bass over that size. All the carp that can be hooked can be taken from the lake.

PROHIBITION IN

NORWAY FAILURE

Popular Demand May Compel
Government to Rescind Ordinance.

CHRISTIANIA, Oct. 31.—The Norwegian press is making an almost unanimous appeal to the government to rescind the prohibition ordinance which was passed in the first excitement of the war to stop the sale of strong alcoholic beverages. Nominally 50 per cent of the Norwegian people is represented in the membership of "teetotal societies," and, next to England, Norway ordinarily has the smallest per capita consumption of alcohol in the world. It is the working classes who are most largely represented in the "teetotal" membership.

The appeal for rescinding the prohibition act as based primarily on assertions that after more than two months of prohibition, prohibition has not worked. Persons who could afford it have indulged extensively in the importation of strong liquors from Denmark and Scotland. Individuals have combined to form "private stock companies" and have brought in thousands of gallons every week each person taking a keg or two for private use.

PROHIBITION FAILS.

Among the poorer classes complaint is made that the prohibition law has created worse conditions prompting the concoction of such vile drinks as "self murder"—the name given to denatured alcohol flavored with oil of peppermint—and the cheapest kinds of so-called sweet wines, made from chemical products, which never save graves.

The police reports in Christiania show that the average numbers of arrests for drunkenness has been about the same as before the ordinance was passed, and in the meantime the government loses a revenue of $250,000 a month. Outside of the teetotal societies the demand for rescinding the new law has gained such headway that it is said the government may meet it.

The government has already rescinded the special law forbidding distillation of alcohol from potatoes. This is ordinarily an extensive industry in Norway, but at the outbreak of the European war it was thought necessary to stop it in order that the potatoes used for this distilling process could not be kept long, there not being enough frost-proof cellars for the storage. The brewers, which had been forbidden to malt their barley, have recommenced operations.

SHORTAGE THREATENS IN SAFETY LAMP GLASS

LONDON, Oct. 31.—The miner's safety-lamp glass, on which depends the safety and livelihood of nearly a million British miners, is exclusively a German product, and English manufacturers are unable to produce a glass which will stand the exacting test of the Home Office.

This fact, starting to mine owners and men, has come to light at a time when the newspapers and societies for capturing German trade are asserting that only cheap and trashy glassware and pottery comes from Germany.

The Home Office test of these lamp glasses is severe. A pound weight of lead is dropped from the height of four feet on each glass submitted. If two out of a dozen crack or chip the others are rejected. After undergoing this test, the glass is submitted to a heat trial. It is brought to a temperature of 712 degrees Fahrenheit and dropped into cold water.

Not only miners' glasses but gauge glasses and test tubes for chemical have come from Germany. In the past, it is doubtful whether England is able to produce this class of goods according to statements of manufacturers. At least the trade will not be built up in a short time. No equipment is required and men must be trained for the new work.

Much of Germany's glassware and pottery is supplied to the more primitive corners of the world, as the Board of Trade exhibition shows, cheap and good. But this trade is nevertheless extensive and profitable and one hitherto neglected by all countries except Germany.

CAR AMPUTATES FOOT.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 31.—Newton W. Miller, a prominent resident of Futaba county and until yesterday, a victim of an unfortunate accident this morning when caused his speedy return to the institution. Miller had been suffering from rheumatism. He is still in a weakened state and became confused today at Geary and Powell street by the approach of two cars. Caught between them, he stepped in front of the rear truck of a westbound Geary car, his right foot being partially amputated. He was hurried to the hospital, where it was decided that an operation would be necessary and the lower limb removed. Motorman Henry Hauser was in charge of the car.

Truth

Honest
AdvertisingTaken from
Grand Rapids Furniture
Record

The Associated Advertising Clubs are back of a campaign which is resulting in the execution of laws against fraudulent advertising and fraudulent statements in advertising, and will prosecute wherever laws have been passed. There is nothing gained by exaggerated or false statements in advertising, the public has learned to discount the superlative and exaggerated in advertising.

Many furniture dealers would get better results if they cut out the big time the absurdly false statements, the misleading cuts, and spend more money for good and truthful illustrations and made plain honest statements concerning the goods and prices. By telling the truth and nothing but the truth is the only way any dealer can expect to retain the confidence and respect of the people in the community where he lives.
